BRITISH NEUTRALITY.

As one instance of the help afforded to the rebels by English government officers, it is asserted that upon the breaking out of the rebellion, HENRY HOTZE, of Mobile, was sent to London to manufacture letters and articles to be inserted in the English and French newspapers, in order to give the most favorable coloring to the rebel transactions, and with full instructions to pay for their insertion if the matter could not be managed otherwise. Upon his arrival at Havana, his visit to the British Consul, Mr. CRAWFORD, was of a friendly nature, and they became so intimate that HOTZE, B. HELM, and the Consul, pledged themselves, individually and collectively, "to aid the holy cause of the Confederacy to the utmost of their power while life remained to them." From that hour the British Consulate became the chief rendezvous between rebeldom and Europe. Dispatches, always written in triplicate, one copy being sent through the English Post-office, addressed, under cover, to the British Consul, as being a sure transit. Moneys, munitions of war, &c., &c., all were consigned to the kind offices of Mr. CRAWFORD. The captains of the blockade-runners also first steered to Mr. CRAWFORD as being the trusted depository of the current post signals. These signals were changed by the rebels every month, and Mr. CRAWFORD, as being the most trusted employe, was first made acquainted with the change for the purpose of informing the blockade-runners—the business houses at St. Thomas, and thence to Bury-street, London.

It has been estimated that by Mr. CRAWFORD's direct assistance, upward of two million bales of cotton and fifty thousand boxes of tobacco were thus smuggled out through the blockade, to say nothing of the munitions of war supplied to the rebels from England, and of which a slight idea may be formed by the single statement that MAGRUDER's forces, in Texas, were entirely armed and equipped from Europe, (principally from London,) directly by the aid and personal assistance of Mr. CRAWFORD. And this is neutrality.

It is said that the following information comes from rebel sources:

WHY WIRZ DID NOT KILL HIMSELF.

Capt. WIRZ, in his incomplete diary, under date of Oct. 1, says that a man was at that time placed in his cell to prevent any attempt he might make to take his own life, but the man fell asleep. He writes that the reason why he did not put an end to his existence was because what he suffered was the will of God, and in the second place he owed it to himself, his family, his relatives, and to the world at large, to prove his innocence.

THE ALLEGED ATTEMPT TO POISON WIRZ.

Mr. LOUIS SCHADE, WIRZ' junior counsel, is out in a letter, in which he pronounces the account of the attempt of Mrs. WIRZ to poison her husband an infamous lie from beginning to end. He says that on the 29th day of October, the day on which the alleged attempt was made, Mrs. WIRZ was in Kentucky and not in Washington, and accompanies his statement with letters from Wirz' wife and daughter to prove it. The account of the attempted poisoning was obtained from Gen. L. C. BAKER, who is the well-known detective of the War Department, by Mr. WAKEMAN, a New-York short-hand reporter, who furnished it to the TIMES, Herald, Tribune and World. The people have had enough of WIRZ, and will leave Messrs. BAKER and SCHADE to settle the question of veracity between themselves. It is proper to add that the public put very little confidence in the poisoning story.

GEN. KILPATRICK'S APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of Gen. KILPATRICK, as Minister to Chili, will not result in the immediate supersedure of our present excellent representative at Santiago, Hon. T. H. NELSON, who has been the acknowledged leader of the diplomatic body at the Chilian Capital for several years. Gen. KILPATRICK has three months' leave of absence for Europe first, and will probably visit Spain and come to an understanding with Her Majesty as to our position with reference to her present aggressions upon Chili, whence he will go to South America fully prepared to maintain the dignity of his important mission, and to see fair play in this latest fight.

GEN. LOGAN GOING TO JAPAN.

Major-Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN has been tendered the mission to Japan. It is understood that Gen. LOGAN accepts the appointment.

SETTLING UP HEAVY ACCOUNTS.

Quite a number of heavy war accounts of long standing against the government, are now being presented and pushed for final settlement. They relate generally to the transportation service. The War Department has just settled the account of J. T. SANFORD, of New-York, for charter money of three steamers chartered early in the war, amounting to $800,000.

SOUTH CAROLINA AND THE DIRECT TAX.

The Secretary of the Treasury has a letter from the Governor of South Carolina asking that that State have the privilege of assuming the direct tax levied by Congress, and that the same may be paid in South Carolina bonds. He alleges that the State is much impoverished and cannot meet the taxes immediately. No action has been taken on the letter by the Secretary of the Treasury.

PRIZE-MONEY READY.

The prize-money of the Princess Royal is now ready for disbursement by the Fourth Auditor. The claims have been hanging in uncertainty for three or four years. The crews of the following United States vessels are interested, viz.: Housatonic, Unadilla, G. W. Blunt, Memphis, Quaker City, America, Augusta.

RECEIPTS FROM CUSTOMS.

The whole sum received by the government for customs from all sources for the month of October is something over $17,000,000. The amount received in New-York is $11,008,737 08; Boston, $1,247,100 12; Philadelphia, $503,468 11; Baltimore, $179,936 05. From all other ports about $4,000,000.

BREVET PROMOTIONS.

Paymaster B. R. COWAN has been breveted Brigadier-General. Major PRINCE has received a Brevet Colonelcy. The following Paymasters have been breveted Lieutenant-Colonels, viz.: J. A. Farrish, J. H. Mayborn, C. M. Terrell, J. M. Crosby, R. S. Webb, Geo. Phelps, A. H. Young, S. E. Adams, H. G. Rogers, J. S. Thurston, W. Vrooman, Jacob Sallade, L. T. Hueston, N. H. Hutchins.

PERSONAL.

Gov. ANDREW, of Massachusetts, and Major-Gen. BARTLETT, of New-York, arrived in the city this morning. Gen. SICKLES, in company with the Secretary of War, called on the President yesterday.

Gen. BUTLER has rented the house recently occupied by the English Minister in this city, now the property of ALFRED LEE, a wealthy colored man.

THE PAY OF SERVANTS.

The Second Comptroller of the Treasury has made the following decision relative to servants' pay:

"In the case of a soldier transferred to the Veteran Reserve Corps agreeably to General Order of the Provost-Marshal-General, dated April 28, 1865, and subsequently mustered out by General Order No. 116, Adjutant-General's office, 1865, application is made for the balance of recruit bounty. The Comptroller decides that as he was discharged by reason of the close of the war, he is entitled to the balance of the bounty the same as though he had remained with his regiment—the fact of his being transferred to the Veteran Reserve Corps and discharged from that organization, not affecting his right to the bounty to which he was entitled under his enlistment. In the case of a representative substitute for a person not liable to draft, it is held that the former is entitled to the same bounty as other recruits enlisted at the same time and for like proceeds of services."

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

News from the Overland Telegraph Expedition—Favorable Progress of the Undertaking.

SAN FRANCISCO, Friday, Nov. 10.

Sailed to-day, steamer Sacramento, for Panama, with $880,000 in treasure for New-York, and $475,000 for England.

Considerable anxiety is manifested on account of the non-arrival of the steamer Constitution, now two days overdue with the passengers, who left New-York per Ocean Queen Oct. 16. It is feared the Ocean Queen may have met with a disaster, while passing the West India islands, during the storm which prevailed there on Oct. 22.

SAN FRANCISCO, Saturday, Nov. 11.

The Western Union Telegraph Company's schooner Milton Badger sailed from New-Archangel Bay bound to Anaydair, Siberia, on Aug. 21, 1865, having on board Lieut. COLLINS, and Lieut. MACREA and party, who are to explore the country to Anadrsoak, a Russian fort, in Siberia. On Aug. 28, they made Keydiak Island. On Sept. 5, they arrived at Onamak Pass. On Sept. 6, they spoke the company's flagship Golden Gate, bound for Fort Michael, Russian America. On Sept. 8, they saw the Island of St. George; on the 14th they made Cape St. Basil, and on the 19th, they ran into the bay and anchored in the passage between Adair Bay and the river opposite an Esquimaux village. Before the vessel came to anchor the natives came on board. They were very friendly and anxious to sell their furs for tobacco, &c.

On the 28th, the schooner weighed anchor and worked up the passage toward the river and anchored, 100 miles from its mouth.

On the 21st, Lieut. MERCER and myself, with a boat's crew, started to make a reconnoisance of the river and found it clear of ice, and the country had the appearance of being a good place to build the line. On the afternoon of the 22d, Lieut. MERCER went on shore to a native settlement five miles from the schooner and found a herd of reindeer containing from 400 to 500 head. On the 25th, he commenced taking in stores, having selected his camp five miles from the mouth of the river.

In the meantime the schooner had worked up to within five miles of the river. On the 29th we finished landing stores. On Oct. 1 we saw the company's steamer George S. Wright, working up the passage, and weighed anchor and ran down to her. Col. BULKLEY was on board. On the 13th the thermometer was down to 16 degrees. On the 14th we sailed for San Francisco in company with the company's steamer George S. Wright, bound for Petropanlovski, Kamschatka, and thence for Victoria, to arrive in San Francisco the last of November. The schooner on the 18th made Amolkhala Pass, having experienced strong winds while in Behring Sea. On the 28th, there were heavy gales from the northwest. On the 22d, spoke bark Coral, of New-Bedford, from the Arctic Ocean, bound to San Francisco, with 1,200 barrels of oil made this season. On Nov. 5, we made the Farrallone Island Light of the harbor of San Francisco.

The appointment of the gallant soldier J. F. MILLER, Collector of the port of San Francisco, gives universal satisfaction, especially as it was made without regard to politics, and is a reward of high merit. The press here, without regard to politics, indorse the appointment.

Col. MARKLAND, who arrived on the last steamer as General Agent of the Postal Department, leaves for Oregon by the overland route, on a tour of inspection. He will find much to do in his new line for the benefit of the community and to the credit of the Post-office Department.

SAN FRANCISCO, Saturday, Nov. 11.

Arrived ship Ella Norton, from New-York.

Business is extremely dull. The market for Eastern goods, with limited exceptions, is weaker. Hay products lower. Any pressure on several other articles would produce a decline. Petroleum flat, and difficult to quote reliably. The stock of goods is generally accumulating. Domestic produce without change, except hides and tallow, which are lower. Money is in demand at 1¼c.@1½c. Stocks flat.

The Portland ship Dublin sold for $20,000.

The goods overdue by the steamer Constitution are being extensively insured at 15 per cent.

The Russian steamer Alexandria, nine days from Silka, arrived at Victoria on the 3d instant. She reports that the telegraph expedition had not returned from the north, and was not expected until New-Years.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sunday, Nov. 12.

The steamer Constitution has just arrived. She is in sight at the outer telegraph station.

AFFAIRS IN THE SOUTH.

Affairs in Louisiana—The Freedmen—Troublesome Times and Dismal Prospects.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Friday, October 27, 1865.

GEN. CANBY AND THE FREEDMEN'S SCHOOL TAX.

In the year 1864 Major-Gen. BANKS issued an excellent order (General Order No. 38) for the establishment and support of schools for the education of freedmen.

That order levied a tax of one mill and a half on a dollar on all real and personal property in the Department of the Gulf.

Under this order twenty thousand children of freedmen were soon gathered from the plantations and towns into the schools established for them. Their progress in learning is found to be equal to that of any other children having the same facilities.

No measure could have been adopted which could solve in so economical and judicious a manner the interesting problem of the Negro in his freed condition. Gen. BANKS gave to Louisiana an immeasurable blessing in the issue of this order. By it, three hundred thousand souls have been greatly benefited. They have now been placed in a condition to become useful members of society. The good done by this step taken by Gen. BANKS, at a cost of about two hundred thousand dollars, would cost the State more than double that sum. I allude to this amount as merely what the schools have cost up to this time. During the year in which the order of Gen. BANKS was issued, the School Board for Freedmen's Schools, borrowed money of the Government, predicated upon the order creating a fund by taxation. This tax, instead of having been collected during the war, was omitted, and when the entire work of the Freedmen's Bureau in Louisiana was placed in charge of Rev. Mr. CONWAY, the late commissioner for this State, the order was taken up and enforced. The enforcement of this order and the collection of the tax were services which Gen. CANBY transferred to Mr. CONWAY in General Orders, No. 101, current series.

With all his other labors the commissioner had to bear the load of debt incurred by Mr. PLUMLEY and his associates while they conducted the freedmen's schools. This debt could only be paid by the collection of this tax. There was no other means of paying it or of relieving the government.

The work began. Nothing was ever more unwelcome to the community. The enforcement of the order, by Mr. CONWAY, brought upon his head the condemnation of every one who owned property. Soon the citizens prepared petitions against the tax, and sent them to Gen. CANBY. The General replied that the tax was levied by proper authority; that it was a measure of economy and necessity; that the citizens have no reason to complain of a special tax levied by the United States for the purpose of giving effect to its own policy in freeing the slaves, inasmuch as the government distributed millions of dollars worth of supplies to the suffering people of the city, which, if distributed by the State, would have crippled her to a serious extent. Gen. CANBY's return to the petitions was very timely and appropriate. The result is that the tax is being collected, and the prospect is that funds borrowed from the government will all be returned.

NO LANDS TO FREEDMEN.

Mr. CONWAY was about to lease sixty thousand acres of land, which was either abandoned or confiscated, to the freedmen and refugees of the State, who were able to cultivate it, when the President sent Gen. FULLERTON to relieve him, and to suspend his arrangements for that purpose.

Instead of leasing lands, as provided by the law of Congress, Act March 3, 1864, the President has directed that all such lands as are alluded to in the act, be restored to their former owners, excepting the classes specified as "exceptions" in his proclamation, who of course get his special pardon. The land aristocracy is continued, and it is no fault of the present policy, if it be not fully revived, with all its dangers and power. Under the law of Congress, there was a prospect that poor men could procure small tracts of land, and work them. The arrangements were made under the order of Gen. HOWARD, and if not hindered, would have been soon completed.

Gen. FULLERTON, who relieved Mr. CONWAY as Commissioner of the Bureau, proclaimed, in his first address to the freedmen, that they could have no land. Mr. CONWAY, two weeks before, in accordance with the law, and in compliance with its requirements, proclaimed to all freedmen and refugees who had the necessary means to cultivate the lots of land allowed by law, that they could have as much land as they were allowed. Four or five hundred industrious freedmen, who had saved their money, accepted the invitation, and applied for the land. The result of the "no-land" policy is, that the freedmen are expecting to be compelled to spend their lives as formerly, toiling for others, and having nothing like an equal chance to rise in the world, and do for themselves.

BREAKING UP OF COLONIES.

Four home colonies for aged and helpless freedmen were established in Louisiana. These served the same purpose as Northern poorhouses do.

It is well-known that the planters, all along during the war, discharged their old and helpless freedmen from their places. As slavery was abolished they had no desire to retain any of their former slaves who were of no service to them. Hence the necessity of having these colonies established. These were organized upon a basis of economy and charity. They were very nearly self-supporting. All but one of these are now to be broken up. The one which is to remain is already crowded with inmates. How those at the others are to be disposed of is a matter which has alarmed the colored population to a great extent.

THE ORPHANS TO BE APPRENTICED.

Gen. FULLERTON had not been at work one week before he issued an order for the discontinuance of the two orphan asylums in this city for the children of deceased freedmen.

This order fell upon the community like the land order, giving delight to the rebels and sadness to the few loyal white people and all the colored people in the city. The orphans themselves, learning that Gen. FULLERTON had ordered that they be apprenticed to citizens, ran away from the asylums, so that the matrons of the establishments found, on the following morning, about one-half of them missing. Even the children of the freedmen would rather die than be bound again by any chains. Under the apprenticeship order some of the former slaveholders went to the asylums asking for "nice fat nigger girls," others for "little niggers fit to black boots and do a little dirty work around the yards." The matrons, both Northern ladies, feeling that their mission of philanthropy was at an end, and that strange events which they never dreamed of, again were transpiring before their eyes, became discouraged and began to think of going home. They appealed to Gen. CANBY, and found ready assistance. Strange to say, that neither of the asylums was in the charge of the Freedmen's Bureau, and yet the commissioner thought it his duty to order that all their orphans be apprenticed under the laws of the State of Louisiana for the apprenticeship of minors. One of the asylums was in charge of the New-York National Freedmen's Relief Association; the other in charge of Mrs. DE MEARTIE, who represents a society of philanthropic ladies in New-York.

The order was issued without so much as consulting these societies or their representatives. When the trouble was made known to Gen. CANBY, he partially revoked Gen. FULLERTON's order, and directed that no orphans be apprenticed except with the knowledge and consent of the agents of the societies, and the consent of Gen. FULLERTON and himself. This wise and good act, leaves these charities to perform their noble work.

CONSTERNATION AMONG THE COLORED LABORERS OF THE CITY—A REIGN OF TERROR.

Gen. FULLERTON next issued an order to the police to arrest all unemployed colored people in the city. The order was read to the police in all the stations in New-Orleans, Carrollton and Jefferson. During the night following, and during all the next day, great was the distress of the poor people who, though they had been subjected to the same treatment two or three years ago—and endured it till Mr. CONWAY, the late Commissioner, removed every obstacle which in any manner operated against them—on account of color—began to feel that old things are not yet passed away, and that they must still be oppressed and tormented by the very men who claim the credit of being their deliverers.

The commissioner had hardly held his office ten days before his name was mentioned with only fear and trembling by the colored people, old and young. Under his vagrant order more men and more women were arrested in one day, than during the three months preceding.

Colored troops, who, the day before, were mustered out of the army, after having served three years, were arrested and borne through the streets by the police. Laborers on their way home from the levee, where they had loaded cotton all day long, were snatched up and carried off, in some instances chained together. The soldiers, who were hardly out of the United States service, seeing that some of their friends had been arrested, concluded that they would resist any attempt to arrest them unless the attempt was made in due process of law. They claimed that they had been just mustered out, and that they had not time to procure employment. They claimed also that, as Gen. FULLERTON had proclaimed the civil law of the State to be as much in favor of the black as the white man, that they should, therefore, only be arrested in the same manner, and borne to the same tribunals as are white persons; and they claimed, furthermore, that Gen. FULLERTON contradicts his own order by having them arrested by the civil power and borne by that power not to a civil court, but to his headquarters and into the presence of his Provost-Marshal, whose court was broken up on the pretence that the civil law was adequate for all the purposes of the bureau; and hence their cases were to be determined without any trial or form of law. The result of the conduct of the police and the resolution of the soldiers was that several sharp fights occurred between them, in which the police were beaten.

As in the case of the apprenticeship order, Gen. FULLERTON was forced to revoke the vagrant order. Strange to say that the General had not issued four orders before "the old citizens" prepared to give him a complimentary dinner, as a token of their respect. Notices of this dinner appeared editorially in the rebel papers of the city.

FREEDMEN'S COURTS BROKEN UP.

Mr. CONWAY, the former commissioner, ordered that in all places where the freedmen are excluded from the courts because of their color, the agents of the bureau establish tribunals of their own, to which all classes of freedmen should be brought. Gen. FULLERTON disposes of this order, and issues his own, which sets forth that the courts of the State are as open to freedmen as to others.

It would be a fortunate circumstance if this were true. But the reverse is the truth, and if Gen. FULLERTON had devoted any attention to the records of his office, we think he would have found it so. In a small town on the Jackson Railroad, a Justice of the Peace sentenced a freedman to receive "a flogging of forty lashes upon his bare back." The sentence, in his own hand-writing, was forwarded to the Bureau of Freedmen, and thence to Gen. CANBY, a copy of which was sent by the General to the War Department.

Another officer of the State—an appointee of Gov. WELLS, like the former—very positively refused to hear "the testimony of any nigger or freedman." In two of the most important towns of the State, Mayors and Police Boards, appointed by Gov. Wells, recently passed local laws in open conflict with the proclamation of emancipation and the laws of Congress in regard to slaves. The oath of amnesty provides that the party taking it will faithfully support all laws, orders and acts of the government in regard to slaves. Though these orders and laws were violated, and the amnesty oath itself broken, yet these officials have gone unpunished. Copies of the Slave Codes passed by these Mayors and boards have been forwarded to the War Department. They deprived the negroes within the limits of their operation from having any liberty whatever. Yet the courts are pronounced as good for the blacks as the whites!

PARTING MEETING WITH MR. CONWAY AT THE ORLEANS THEATRE.

The loyal citizens of New-Orleans, out of respect to late Assistant Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, called a meeting at the Orleans theatre on the evening of the 28th instant. Mr. CONWAY was invited to address the audience who had filled the entire building. He was most cordially greeted. He commenced his address by depicting the miserable condition of Louisiana when he arrived upon her soil. He found no work done on the farms; the planters were gone; they left no food or clothing; and the poor freedmen discouraged, abandoned by their former owners, and dying in very large numbers, were taken by him and furnished with employment. He found opposition at every step, and at the outset but slight sympathy from the professed friends of liberty. He began his labors with the Freedmen's Bureau, not in a palace or easy chair, but upon the back of a mule. From that time till now, steady progress has been made, and to-day twenty thousand children of freedmen are going to school like other children, and one hundred and fifty thousand adults are, to some degree, reaping benefits from the measures adopted for their improvement. He never met any sympathy from the present State authorities. They hindered him all they could. He was hated because he obeyed his orders and was a faithful friend of the poor people for whose benefit the Freedmen's Bureau was established. It was because he was so, that Gov. WELLS wrote to President JOHNSON and procured his removal.

He stated that by means of the plans which he devised, three millions of dollars, earned by freedmen within the military lines of the Gulf Department in 1864, have been secured to them; whereas, without the operation of these plans, the opposition of the planters was so great, and the failure of the crop by the ravages of the army worm had been so disastrous, that probably not $500,000 would have been paid. He claimed that the laborer was worthy of his hire, and for the observance of this as a rule, and for the inforcement of it under all circumstances, the planters hated him so badly that they were delighted to see him depart. He labored as hard for the whites as for the blacks, and while the former were fighting to destroy the government, he was struggling to revive industry and promote the general good.

He spoke for one hour and a half, and dwelt extensively upon the experiences of the Freedmen's Bureau in administering justice, and promoting the good of the State.

At the close of his speech, Rev. Dr. NEWMAN made a short address, in which he pronounced the removal of Mr. CONWAY a public calamity, brought about by the rebel politicians of the State, and without any fault. He had it from a high official source that Mr. CONWAY was regarded by the chief of the bureau as a good and faithful man, and that the present rebel power of Louisiana was the chief instrument in his displacement. He said the loyal white citizens, and all the blacks—who, of course, are loyal—regret parting with him, for in so doing they part with a true man and faithful public servant.

The following resolutions were offered by ANTHONY FERNANDEZ, Esq., President of the meeting, a veteran who fought with Gen. JACKSON at the battle of Chalmette. They were adopted by the whole audience standing upon their feet:

Whereas, THOS. W. CONWAY, late Superintendent of the Freedmen Bureau and Abandoned Lands, for the State of Louisiana, is about to leave this city for the North; therefore be it

Resolved, That wishing to give him a proof of our acknowledgments for his good conduct, impartiality, patriotism, assiduity in the faithful discharge of his duties during the period he was intrusted with such a difficult task, the innumerable difficulties thrown in his way, in his official duties, as superintendent of said bureau, by the enemies of progress and humanity, in fomenting distrust and alarm in this community and State, through the newspapers of this city and State, whose proclivities are well known to every good and loyal citizen; we, unanimously and of a common accord, give him with pleasure and gratitude this testimonial, approving his patriotic conduct while in the discharge of his numerous and difficult duties; his humane manner of treating the freedmen, the good advice he has always given them to be good citizens, laborious and law-abiding men, and to treat everybody with courtesy and politeness; and to testify to him at the same time our regrets to be deprived of his valuable services in the great cause of humanity and right.

The following is the letter of Gen. CANBY concerning the Freedmen's School Tax:

GEN. CANBY TO GOV. WELLS.

HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF LOUISIANA, NEW-ORLEANS, Oct. 18, 1865.

To His Excellency, the Governor of Louisiana, New-Orleans, Louisiana:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 13th inst., in relation to the taxes for school purposes levied and now being collected under General Orders No. 38, of 1864.

This order was issued by competent authority, and was within the legal discretion of the commander who issued it. It was one of a series of measures dating from the first occupation of the city by the forces of the United States, forced upon the army by military exigencies, and adopted by it for the purpose of relieving the citizens of New Orleans from grievous burdens, and disembarrassing the army from incumbrances that would have hampered its movements and emasculated its efficiency. The city of New Orleans was in no condition to feed the forty thousand of its inhabitants who were then fed, or of the gradually diminishing numbers in the intermediate periods to the present time, to the twelve thousand that are in part still fed by the army. It was in no condition to sustain the public charities that have been and are still, to a considerable extent, relieved by the army; nor for the care and education of the several thousand colored children which, but for the assistance rendered by the army, would have been, to a material extent, a charge upon the city treasury, or a burden upon the public and private charities of its inhabitants.

It is not pertinent to this question to discuss the wisdom of these measures. It is sufficient to say that they were adopted at a time of great public and military exigency, and that as a practical result they have relieved the city and people of New-Orleans, independent of the contributions that have been levied especially for that purpose, of an expenditure of more than $2,000,000, and that some of the exigencies have fallen upon us by a natural and inevitable inheritance, which we must meet as we may best meet them.

I have already advised your Excellency, both orally and in writing, that the necessities above indicated have outrun the means at the disposal of the military authorities for their relief, and that advances have been made not authorized by law or regulations, that should be reimbursed in order to save the officers who made them from pecuniary accountability at the Treasury of the United States. These amount in the aggregate, to between $375,000 and $400,000, and have been made in the interest and for the benefit of the people of New-Orleans. The collection of the particular tax to which your communication refers is one of these cases.

Under the law of March 3, 1865, and the order of the President of June 2, 1865, the subject was transferred to the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, and is now under the control of that bureau, except so far as military authority may be necessary to enforce its collection, and that collection is necessary in order to reimburse advances made to the Freedmen's Bureau, and for that reason is urged by the commissioner Gen. HOWARD, at the head of that bureau.

Its remission at this time will necessarily throw upon the State and city much greater burdens than they are now bearing. But while I cannot concede that the points made by the petitioners have been well considered by them, or that the remission can properly be claimed upon any principle of justice or equity, I will very willingly unite with your Excellency and Gen. FULLERTON in any measure of relief that may be devised.

Very respectfully, Sir, your obedient servant,
E. R. S. CANBY,
Major-Gen. Commanding.

The Trials of a Rebel Journal.

The Memphis Appeal, once more issued from the city of its original location, gives the following humorous account of its perilous travels during the war:

"THE MEMPHIS-GRENADA-JACKSON-ATLANTA-MONTGOMERY APPEAL."—As this journal has been pretty well advertised under the foregoing designation, it may interest some of our readers "on this side of the line" to be informed how it came to have so many localities as its place of publication. Being then what is now called a "rebel" sheet, it left Memphis on the morning of June 6, 1862, while the gunboat fight was going on hotly in front of the city, and was, in a short while, reissued at Grenada, Miss. On the 29th November, 1862, that pleasant little town having got into rather close proximity to Gen. GRANT's headquarters, who was seeking to make the acquaintance of Gen. PEMBERTON at Abbeville, the Appeal retired to Jackson, the capital of Mississippi. Here it continued until the 14th of May, 1863, when Gens. GRANT and SHERMAN took it into their heads to "occupy and possess" that snug little city. They thought they were about to "bag" the Appeal, beyond any peradventure, and their scouts had furnished them with a copy of that morning's issue fresh and damp from the press—but they didn't. As they came in one way, the Appeal went out the other way, with full forty rounds of shot and shell making a pother over its head, before it could get out of the way of those impatient military commanders. The Appeal then, after issuing small extras, at Meridian, for about a week, cast its lines in the pleasant places of Atlanta, thinking to be out of both GRANT's and SHERMAN's way. But here again, on the 20th of July, 1864, the last named gentleman—whom we take to be of a very restless temperament—gave unmistakeable indications that he wanted Atlanta likewise, and so the Appeal retired to Montgomery, Ala., continuing, however, to issue extra slips from a proof-press, until the evacuation. As Gen. Somebody's corps marched into town one side, the proof-press, and the few cases of type retained to operate it, went out on a dray on the other—and so Gen. SHERMAN and the Appeal parted for good. We believe he went off somewhere down in Georgia, and we have since learned that he and his men knocked printing offices into pi at a terrible rate, over in South Carolina. The Appeal resumed its regular publication at Montgomery on the 20th of September, 1864, and continued to entertain and instruct the denizens of "Dixie's land" until about the 12th of April, 1865, when another fierce gentleman of the Federal military persuasion took it into his head to ride furiously down through Alabama. He gobbled up Selma, using it very roughly, burning foundries, gun-factories, and things generally of the "S. C." brand of ownership. When it was definitely ascertained that this modern Assyrian with his cohorts of seven-shooting Spencer riflemen had fixed his voracious eye on Montgomery—that is to say, about the 12th of April, 1865—the Appeal made room for him by going to Columbus, Ga. From this time forward, the story is briefly told. Montgomery was occupied without resistance, and Columbus captured by Major-Gen. WILSON, after a stout but ineffectual defence. The materials of the office, with the exception of the press and a few cases that had been forwarded to Macon, were piled in the street and destroyed by order of Major-Gen. WILSON, who exacted of Col. DILL, one of the proprietors who was captured with the capture of Columbus, a bond of one hundred thousand dollars not to publish the Appeal during the war, or in default to be held a prisoner. Luckily, "the war" gave out soon thereafter, and the Appeal, being now perfectly iron-clad with paroles, amnesties and pardons, is on its feet again, in robust and vigorous life."

The Mississippi Legislature Insulted.

The Jackson correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette gives the following glimpse into the prejudices of the men who are now endeavoring to restore Mississippi to her place in the Union:

"A terrible fire-brand was thrown into the Lower House a few days since, in the shape of a colored soldier, with his bayonet, to guard a criminal who wished to see one of the members. The soldier stood at a parade rest inside the door, back under the gallery, where he remained quietly until the prisoner had finished his business, when both stepped noiselessly outside the hall. Immediately some half dozen members are on their feet, one crying in the most agonizing tones, 'We have been insulted!' another, 'It was intended!' while another was for 'Preserving the dignity of the House.' Explanation by the unfortunate recipient of the aforesaid prisoner's visit, to the effect that the soldier was there 'in the simple performance of his duty, and by the request of the prisoner himself,' was of no avail. The Speaker declared upon his word of honor, and by the high position he occupied, that 'This House shall not again suffer such an indignity, particularly from a United States soldier.'"

A Fenian Plot in Canada Discovered.

From the Toronto Leader, Nov. 10.

Two men, now in the city jail on a charge of robbery, have disclosed to the authorities a plot of the Fenians now preparing for execution, in this city. The scheme is nothing less than the robbery of the banks. There are, according to the statement of these men, seven emissaries from the Head Centre now in town, whose business it is to manage this enterprise. It is proposed to collect a number of men—a hundred or so—make a dash on the banks some night and then decamp.

The banks were notified of this disclosure yesterday, and measures have been taken that will render the execution of this scheme of plunder impossible.

The story told by these men is corroborative of the statement made by the Head Centre in New-York to the correspondent of the Times that the first step in the programme of these patriots was to enter on a plundering expedition in Canada, by which the means of obtaining vessels for the expedition against Ireland would be secured. M. PERREAULT made a similar statement, in Lower Canada, before he could have read the statement in the Times. There is therefore a perfect concurrence in three several and distinct statements; which is some guarantee for the correctness of the story told by the two prisoners now in the city jail. So far as we know, its correctness is not doubted. Any attempt of the kind proposed would be sure to lead to disastrous consequences to those engaged in it. There would be no possibility of their escaping; and any who might not be shot by the militia would stand a good chance of going to the penitentiary. The discovery of the plot has led to precautions being taken; but it has not created any alarm among those most interested; and the public generally will now only hear of it through this announcement.

The Cattle Plague in England.

The following is a psalm sung in Osmotherly Church, Yorkshire, England, above a century ago. It was composed by the parish clerk on the occasion of the murrain, a severe distemper that raged among the horned cattle in the year 1747. It was sung and chorused by the whole congregation in the church. The four first stanzas contained an account of the cattle that died, and the names of the farmers to whom they belonged. The remaining verses were as follows:

No Christian's bull nor cow, they say,
But takes it out of hand;
And we shall have no cows at all,
I doubt, within this land.

The doctors, though they all have spoke
Like learned gentlemen,
And told us how the entrails look,
Of cattle dead and green;

Yet they do nothing do at all,
With all their learning's store:
So Heaven drive out this plague away,
And vex us not no more.

This piece was so well received that after the sermon it was desired again by all the congregation, except five farmers—who wept—declaring that the lines were too moving. The minister, on going out, said to the clerk, "Why, JOHN, what psalm was that we had to-day—it was not of David's?" "No, no," quoth JOHN, big with the honor he had acquired, "David never made such a psalm since he was born—this is one of my own."

There are few losses which the Poles have felt so much as the destruction or removal to St. Petersburgh of their historical monuments. Each invasion of the Russian troops was marked by a systematic mutilation of national memorials, and the removal of valuable libraries and archives from the country. Of these the most important was the Zaluski Library, which consisted of 300,000 volumes and a magnificent collection of manuscripts, and which now forms the richest portion of the Imperial Library at St. Petersburgh. It was taken to Russia by the Cossacks, who roughly packed the books in wooden cases, and cut the folios in order to make them fit. A large number of the books and manuscripts were stolen while on their way to St. Petersburgh, and afterward sold in Poland, where they may yet be seen with the library stamp on them. The Archæological Museum at Wilna has now also been rifled by the authorities of its most valuable treasures.

The well-known Esterhazy picture gallery, which possesses some remarkably fine specimens of MURILLO—large pictures of the Holy Family and scenes from the life of the Virgin—is no longer in Vienna. It has been removed to the museum at Pesth, the fine collection having been given by its possessor to that town as the nucleus of a gallery to be formed there. The enormous possessions of the ESTERHAZY family have for some time been put under sequestration, and it was feared by the parties most nearly concerned that this rich gift might after all be withheld, and the collection sold to help to remove some of the load of debt with which the estate was burdened. But it has been safely lodged in its new home.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Dedication of St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic Church.

The newly-erected church on Thirty-seventh-street, near Second-avenue, was consecrated yesterday for sacred worship in the Roman Catholic faith, under the patronage of St. Gabriel, the Archangel. The solemn ceremonies were conducted with the pomp inseparable from the celebration of High Mass. Archbishop McCloskey and Bishop Lynch, assisted by numerous auxiliaries, were the celebrants, and the ceremony attracted a great multitude, many of whom could not gain entrance.

This new church is scarcely yet completed, but even now it will compare favorably with many of the leading Roman Catholic churches in this city. The front, on Thirty-seventh-street, is of brown-stone, with transepts on either side of the main entrance. The architecture is of the pure Gothic style. The galleries do not extend within thirty feet of the altar, and in the left hand intervalem, it is intended to build a chapel thirty feet wide, affording accommodation for those who desire to offer up their morning orisons. The church is 190 feet long by 68 feet wide. There are three aisles, and the entire building will seat fully 2,000 persons. The magnificent altar-piece, which is the chief glory of the church, is that which is now suspended over the high or principal altar. It represents the Archangel Gabriel at the time when he appeared to the Blessed Virgin Mary and announced to her the great mystery of the incarnation: "Hail Mary, full of grace, our Lord is with thee, blessed art thou amongst women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus." The Archangel is here represented as having just descended from heaven and making the announcement recorded in Scripture. Through the permission of Cardinal Barnabo, this masterpiece was copied from the original in the Propaganda Fide by Mazzoleni. The original is by Guido Remi, and has been placed in the grand collection at the Quirinal Chapel, Rome. Over each of the aisles (both middle and side aisles) are architraves resting on the columns which form the aisles. The edifice was built through the instrumentality of the Pastor, Rev. Father Clowry, who has labored earnestly in the work.

At an early hour yesterday morning crowds could be seen wending their several ways toward the church, and by the time for the commencement of the dedicatory ceremonies not a seat could be found, while the aisles were crowded almost to suffocation. In order to add to the funds of the church, one dollar was charged for admission tickets, thus gaining a large sum for the completion of the edifice.

Inside the railing of the altar were seated the Most Rev. Archbishop McCloskey, of New-York; Right Rev. Bishop Lynch, of Charleston, S. C.; Very Rev. Wm. Storrs, Vicar General; Rev. D. McNeeny, Secretary to the Archbishop; Rev. Fathers Meagher, S. J.; Nicot, S. J.; W. H. Clowry, Pastor; Brietta, Curate; Thos. Farrell, of St. Joseph; John Larkin, J. L. Couran, A. J. Donnelly, Drs. Murragh, McCarthy and Pfeiffer, Order of Franciscans.

The celebrant was Father Brietta, the Deacon Rev. A. J. Donnelly, and the Sub-Deacon Rev. Mr. Couran. Rev. Father McNeeny was the Master of Ceremonies.

The Archbishop conducted the dedicatory services, including the "Asperges me Domine." The grand high mass was magnificently sung by the choir, their superb voices filling the church with harmony.

Right Rev. Bishop Lynch, read the lesson of the day—the sixth chapter of Chronicles—after which he preached the dedication sermon. His remarks were chiefly devoted to a description of the early history and subsequent troubles of the Christian Church, and he claimed that the history of the Jews afforded a striking example of the necessity for some outward form of worship; for while Israel was faithful in the performance of her religious duties the nation was prosperous. As soon as the observance of the Sabbath fell off, and the temples were suffered to fall into decay and ruin, then came humiliation, if not annihilation. He spoke of the dangers and persecutions of the primitive Christians, and gave a graphic description of the Catacombs of Rome and the churches throughout Europe, showing that the Church had outlived her persecutors. In concluding his sermon, Bishop Lynch urged upon his hearers the necessity of strict attention to religious duty and the observance of church devotion, and bestowed his blessing upon the church itself, the congregation and all assembled therein.

MEETING IN REV. MR. BEECHER'S CHURCH—ADDRESSES BY PROF. TACCHELLA AND REV. DR. HITCHCOCK.

In conformity with a widely-extended notice, the friends of a reformed and christianized Italy assembled at Plymouth Church yesterday afternoon, to listen to the narration and suggestions of Prof. Tacchella, of Milan. Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, of this city, occupied the chair and called the meeting to order, introducing the Professor as an Italian noted in his own land for vigor of intellect and culture, and known to all Christian teachers as an earnest, able advocate of liberal Christian sentiment and the religion of the Lord and Saviour.

Prof. Tacchella made a long and singularly interesting address on the condition of Italy, contrasting the fact and opportunity of the past with the glories of the present and the magnificent possibilities of the future. The rise, progress and present weakness of the Romish power were eloquently depicted, and the most encouraging prophecies drawn from the fact of its decline, for the young and sturdy Church of the present. He told his own story, weaving with it anecdotes of a personal nature, which served to deepen the interest of his hearers in his subject and himself. Of his well known paper, the Echo d'Italia, he remarked that it had done an immensity of good, and had been made the subject of a special diatribe from the Bishop. To the support of his paper, he has given $6,000 a year in gold, besides his personal care, service and attention. What he now desires is, that a sum equal to that shall be pledged by the residents of this country for the ensuing three years, so that while a burden is lifted from his shoulders, a great good may be continued to the struggling Christians of his land. For the more successful spreading of the gospel, it seems necessary that churches should be provided for the use of those who now worship in basements and ill-adapted apartments. This can be done without expense, as since the time of Napoleon the First, who closed many of the churches, these buildings have been vacant or occupied as storehouses all over the kingdom. One of them has been granted to the English by Victor Emanuel, and it is believed that a petition from America would insure a similar favor to the 4,000 Christians in Milan. The petition will be placed in all the churches next Sunday, and it is hoped the people will do this good man the little favor he asks at their hands.

In closing the services Rev. Dr. Hitchcock heartily indorsed all that his eloquent brother had said, and urged a compliance with his two requests, viz.: money and names.

We learn that matters are in progress to put this project on a good footing and insure its success. Prof. Tacchella, said Dr. Hitchcock, is not only a sound Christian man, but a cultivated scholar, an experienced journalist and a traveler of great and varied experience.

The Twenty-second Regiment Promenade Concert—Opening of the Season.

The gallant young members of the gallant Twenty-second Regiment, opened their season of promenade concerts on Saturday evening, at their armory, in Fourteenth-street, near Sixth-avenue. As usual with the Twenty-second, the concert was patronized by a brilliant crowd of fashion, and the appearance of the gathering en promenade was pleasing and delightful. The Twenty-second Regiment Band, under the able leadership of T. Jefferson Dodworth, made their attractive programme still more so by the attention bestowed upon its execution.

The following comprised the programme:

March, "Aspinwall." Overture to "William Tell." Fantasia on song "Beatiful Dreamer." Quickstep, "Good Health." Grand selection from "Attila." Lied, "O, Bitt Euch Liebe Vogelein." Mazourka Tyrolienne, "Gruz aus der Ferne." Grand pot pouri, "The Tour of Europe." The "Beethoven Waltz." Polonaise from "L'Africaine." The Union Pot Pouri.

The members of the Twenty-second may fairly congratulate themselves upon the opening of their promenade concert season, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the entire season will prove fully as successful.

FANWOOD VS. ALERT.

On Saturday afternoon a spirited game was played between these two clubs. The Fanwood Club is composed of pupils of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb at Washington Heights; the members of the Alert are students of the Fort Washington French Institute. The game took place upon the lawn of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and lasted about two hours and a half. The deaf and dumb boys showed that though they make less noise in their play than other boys generally do, they know how to wield the bat and perform all the necessary evolutions. They won the game by a score of 42 to 33. During the first five innings, the French boys were ahead, and disappointment and disgust were painted upon the faces of their deaf-mute antagonists, but when in the sixth inning, the latter retrieved their fortune, their countenances and gestures expressed their delight. The following is the score:

MONDAY, Nov. 13—A. M.

Trade continues active for so late a period in the Fall season. Both the Import and Export movement is large. The latter embraces a considerable amount of Cotton for Liverpool and the Continent. Since the yielding in prices at Liverpool, there is a free disposition on the part of holders here to meet the market. The stocks in New-York and New-Orleans continue, however, to gain on the demand for export and from our domestic mills. The amount on hand in this port, including Cotton on shipboard not cleared, is reckoned at 150@160,000 bales, and at New-Orleans 125,000 bales. The Customs Duties continue large, though the amount of the fresh entries of Foreign Goods going into Bond is rather ahead of the withdrawals from Bond. The rates of Exchange on London have fallen to 108⅛@108½ ℘ cent. and there is no prospect of the resumption of specie exports, except in the way of Gold bars delivered from California. Of these there is about $1,000,000 to go forward the present week. Money keeps active at 7 ℘ cent. on call, and 7@9 ℘ cent. on prime paper. Some of the New-England and Western Country Banks are short of Money, and continue to send in their 7-30 ℘ cent. United States Treasury paper for resale, which has further depressed Government securities 1@1¼ ℘ cent. The Railway Stocks were feverish throughout the week, and left off generally lower than on Saturday week. A very large business is doing, however, on speculation, the short sellers being, for the time, in the majority.

The Import Entries for the past week, including the Dry Goods return in our last paper, amount to $6,174,655, as against the total entries of $3,227,571 same week last year. The Export Clearances of Domestic Produce amount to $6,127,156, against $1,874,605 same week last year. The export of Specie amounts to $196,400 against $1,219,289 same week last year. The Customs for the week are $2,463,112. The receipts of Cotton, coastwise and by railroad, are 28,016 bales. The number of emigrant passengers arrived during the week is 5,479.

The price of Gold again ruled steady Saturday, at 146⅛@146⅜ ℘ cent. at one time, 146⅛@⅜ ℘ cent. After the sailing of the steamers Exchange was offered on London at 108⅝@108¾ ℘ cent. standard names, and 108⅛@108⅜ for Southern Bank bills with New-York indorsement. The export of Gold by the day's steamers, $130,000, making for the whole week $196,400. The Customs receipts of the week into the Treasury Office are $2,463,112, and the Gold Interest payments out of the Office $1,000,300. The receipts of Cotton 28,016 bales.

The market for Money was easier than on Friday to borrowers on demand, the lenders being quite ready, as usual on Saturday, to make two days' interest even if they should have occasion to recall their balances on Monday. The rate is full 7 ℘ cent. at which the leading Stock firms in the street are readily supplied, and some few of them were lenders themselves Saturday. Various rumors, for effect, on the Stock Exchange, were indulged as to what the Treasury would do or be compelled to do with the 5 ℘ cent. legal Tenders falling due, in course, on the 1st December, and a peremptory Loan in an open market spoken of as likely to make a pressure for Money. The facts are directly the contrary. 1. There is only a remnant of about $18,000,000 of the $150,000,000 coupon 5 ℘ cent. legal Tenders of 1863, now outstanding. 2. The accumulated interest on the Notes since the 1st June coupon was paid is 2½ ℘ cent. This interest can, and probably will, be paid and payment stamped on the face of the Notes, on the 1st December, and the same rate of interest be allowed to run while the Notes are withheld from presentation for payment. 3. Or, if the holders prefer, they can send the Notes into the Government at Washington for payment of principal and the 2½ ℘ cent. interest, and receive their money by draft on the New-York Treasury Office. 4. Or the Government can substitute for the 5 ℘ cent. Notes, the Compound Interest Notes, as provided for such cases in the Loan Act of June, 1864. 5. Or the holders of these Notes can receive the interest and deposit the principal in the New-York Office and receive therefor 6 ℘ cent. Certificates, redeemable after 30 days on 10 days' notice. 6. And finally, in no contingency, is a new Loan, in the sense rumored on the street, contemplated, much less necessary to meet these Notes. We deem it more than probable that as a matter of choice the large holders (chiefly the Banks, which treat them as part of their Legal Tender reserve of 25 ℘ cent.) will take the 2½ ℘ cent. interest, have the payment stamped, and circulate, or hold, at their convenience, the Notes in their present form. There is another 5 per cent. Legal-Tender issue of 1864, outstanding for about $12,000,000 or $13,000,000, not due until March and April, 1866, which added to the above, accounts for the whole rumor of a new thirty million Loan!

At the Stock Exchange the Government list continued weak, while the Railways were in partially better demand. The contests between Bull and Bear on Pittsburgh, Michigan Southern and Erie are the chief points of the Street, and occasion much discussion on both sides. The short sellers of Michigan Southern are most industrious in circulating their version of the condition; amount of available Stock, and "remote" prospects for the next dividend of the Road.

We notice that Messrs. Babcock, Brothers & Co., Bankers in Sterling Exchange and foreign mercantile credits, have removed to the new building, No. 14 Broad-street, recently fitted up by the New-York Indemnity Guaranty Company.

On Saturday the Erie Company were placed in funds for the November installment of their recent £800,000 loan in London, and immediately retired 14,000 shares of their reserved stock heretofore under hypothecation with Mr. Drew. In a few weeks, the December installment on the same loan will enable the Company to retire the remaining 14,000 shares; thus restoring the capital to where it stood on the last Annual Report; say 164,000 shares, of which about 60 per cent. is now owned abroad.

Mr. Benjamin Holladay, the well-known Overland Mail Contractor, in connection with Messrs. Paul S. Forbes, S. L. M. Barlow, William B. Duncan, William B. Travers, and others, has established a line of steamers for the Pacific coast service, between San Francisco and Oregon and British Columbia, and also between the Mexican ports on the Pacific and San Francisco. See advertisement on another page.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Memphis-Grenada-Jackson-Atlanta-Montgomery Appeal is revived. The first number of volume sixteen was published in Memphis on the 5th inst. It is printed on the identical press which left Memphis in 1862, and which was kept out of the hands of the Union army during the war, though it had to do some tall traveling to accomplish this. It is worked by the same pressman, Andy Harman, who was shelled out of Jackson when Grant made his famous move from Brownsburgh.

Whenever the people can get at the men who opposed the war, they strike them down without mercy. For instance, Seneca County, in this State, gives Slocum 300 majority, which is 250 less than that given to McClellan last Fall. Mr. Stowell, editor of the Democratic local paper, personally quite popular, but who croaked against the war, was the Democratic candidate for County Clerk. He was beaten, 250 majority by his Union opponent, Gen. J. B. Murray.

Hon. Wm. B. Calhoun, a well-known public man in Springfield, Mass., died in that city last Wednesday, aged 69 years. He had served eleven years in the Massachusetts Legislature, and was twice chosen Speaker. He also served four years in Congress, commencing in 1835. For many years he was an associate editorial writer for the Springfield Republican. He was a man of ability both as a writer and speaker, and possessed a pure character.

This has been a great season for Generals, and what is a little remarkable, in not a single instance, that we are aware of, has a soldier who was running as a candidate of the Union party, been defeated. Gens. Stone, of Iowa; Oglesby, of Illinois; Fairchild, of Wisconsin; Marshall, of Minnesota; Cox, of Ohio; Ward, of New-Jersey; Barlow, of New-York, have, as the candidates of the Union party, been triumphantly elected.

We learn from North Carolina, that Mr. Turner, a member of the rebel Congress, has been elected to our Congress, in the Raleigh district; and that in the Newbern district, Mr. Clark, a man who cannot take the oath, is chosen. These results do not promise well for speedy reconstruction; and President Johnson has ordered Gov. Holden to continue as Military Governor until further orders.

A few weeks ago, a gentleman in Petersburgh, employed for the purpose by the military authorities, canvassed the city to ascertain the number of houses struck by Federal shells during the recent seige. His investigations developed the fact that there were over eight hundred houses struck by whole shells, beside large numbers of others which received rude touches from fragments.

Attempts were made by the Democratic papers before the election to impeach the character of Mr. Dorn, the Union candidate for Canal Commissioner. His neighbors answered the charges by giving him over eleven hundred majority in his own county—Schenectady—upward of six hundred more than any other candidate on his ticket.

Provisional Governor Sharkey, of Mississippi, established a Special Equity Court. The Legislature passed an act abolishing it, but Gov. Humphreys interposed the veto and prevented the abolition. The lower branch of the Legislature has since passed the act by the constitutional majority, and it is believed the Senate will do the same.

Ex-Gov. Pierce of Texas says that the intimates of Provisional Governor Hamilton say that he will hardly call the State to meet in convention before the middle of January next, and the citizens of Texas express the belief that Texas will not be represented in the next session of Congress. The debt contracted by Texas amounts to nine millions of dollars.

We have from Washington a curious and important list of names of English merchants and manufacturers who furnished contraband goods to the rebels during the war. It is circumstantially shown that the most powerful and useful friend of the rebels near this country was Mr. Crawford, British Consul at Havana.

Mr. B. W. Greene, the miserable man who killed his wife in Hartford, is steadily recovering physically, but his mind is unsteady, and he now has police attendants to prevent him from doing more mischief. He will be taken to the Insane Retreat as soon as he is able to be moved.

Michael Kierchner, the murderer of the soldier Henning, who is under sentence of death in Buffalo, publishes a rambling letter, in which he declares he is innocent of the crime for which he is condemned, but is ready for execution, though not prepared for the future.

Maj.-Gen. Meade, Gov. Parsons, of Alabama; Ex-Gov. Pollock, of Pennsylvania; Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, and Gen. Fiske, Commissioner of Kentucky and Tennessee, are announced to address the meeting at Cooper Institute this evening, on the condition and wants of the South.

The telescope is following up the "Star of Empire." Chicago boasts of the largest instrument in the world for searching the heavens. It has outdone Boston in its magnificent astronomical apparatus, and can now beat anything on land or afloat in taking "observations."

The Cleveland (Ohio) Union gives the details of a case of reckless trifling, resulting in the sudden death of a youth named Theodore Reeder, of that place, and showing a most revolting state of morals on the part of several individuals. Theodore was a lad of nineteen years, who had contracted vicious associations and evil habits. On Sunday last he was in the "Star Saloon," and was bantered and badgered into drinking twenty-eight ounces of bad whisky, from the effects of which he died. The Coroner's jury say that "this whisky was drunk at the instance of Jacob Gebhart, Henry Cook and T. W. Hedges, and on a banter made by them." After having for mere fun drenched their victim with poisonous whisky till he fell to the floor, they became alarmed, and administered salt and water and "tobacco tea," to produce vomiting, but they had carried their fun too far. The boy, the only son of his mother, died in the wretched den.

The official vote of Colorado at the election Sept. 5, is declared as follows: For the Constitution, 3,024; against, 2,850; showing a majority of only 155 in favor of State Government. On the proposition to strike the word "white" from the new constitution, the ayes were 476, and the noes, 4,192.

The new Legislature of the State of Iowa is politically divided as follows: Senate—Republican, 43; Opposition, 5. House—Republican, 83; Opposition, 15. Republican majority on joint ballot, 106; large enough for all practical purposes.

The story sent to the leading New-York papers about an attempt by Wirz' wife to poison him, by transferring a pill of strychnine to his mouth while kissing him, is pronounced by Mr. Schade, Wirz' counsel, to be a pure invention.

The State election in Nevada for local officers, members of the Legislature and Congressmen, took place on the 7th inst. D. R. Ashley, (Rep.,) for Congress, has about 1,000 majority.

Gen. Kilpatrick will visit Europe before going as Minister to Chili, and probably have a talk with the Spanish Government about the relations between that Power and the South American States.

Gen. John C. Breckinridge is reported to be living at St. Catherine's, Canada. The Louisville Journal has reason for anticipating his return to Kentucky at an early day.

The names of Ex-Governor Kirkwood, Gen. Fitz Henry Warren and A. W. Hubbard are mentioned in connection with the Iowa United States Senatorship.

The Tunisian Ambassadors arrived at Providence, R. I., yesterday morning. They will study the curiosities in that region for about a week.

The Daily Union is a new and handsomely printed paper just started at Schenectady, New-York, by A. S. Burdick.

The census of Massachusetts shows a population of 1,267,329 this year, an increase of 36,263 since 1860. The present number of voters is 246,037.

The mission to Japan has been offered to Gen. Logan, and it is supposed that he will accept.

LOCAL NEWS.

The beautiful new Roman Catholic Church of St. Gabriel, situated in Thirty-seventh-street, near Second-avenue, was dedicated yesterday morning, by the celebration of grand high mass. The dedicatory services were conducted by Archbishop McCloskey, of New-York, and the dedication sermon was preached by Bishop Lynch, of Charleston, S. C. The services were solemn and full of grandeur, while the singing of the mass by the choir was magnificent. Rev. Father Clowry is pastor, and Rev. Father Brietta is curate of this new church.

The Twenty-second Regiment opened their promenade concert season Saturday evening, at their armory, in Fourteenth-street, near Sixth-avenue. A fashionable audience was assembled to listen to the music of the regimental band, and enjoy an agreeable promenade through the rooms. The concert was in every way a success, and the season also will doubtless prove so. His Excellency Gov. Fenton, accompanied by Quartermaster-Gen. E. A. Merritt, and Assistant Paymaster-Gen. Charles W. Darling, were among the guests.

A large assembly, at the Church of the Puritans, last evening, listened with deep interest to addresses from Rev. Mr. French and Gen. Fiske, upon the condition of the freedmen and the operations of the bureau. The freedmen in South Carolina and Georgia are in a miserable state of destitution and suffering; those in Kentucky are not much better off; those in Tennessee and Northern Alabama are in a somewhat more hopeful condition.

In the Supreme Court Chambers, an order of arrest was obtained Saturday, for the apprehension of a person charged with having obtained money by false pretences, under circumstances of a very peculiar nature, but we refrain from publishing them, as the person charged with the crime has not been arrested.

Bentham Fabian, arrested in Richmond, Va., on a charge of attempting to defraud the Government of $40,000 by removing goods from the Custom-house on fictitious bonds, was brought on to this city Saturday. He is indicted jointly with William Chase Barney.

A meeting of the friends of Italian progress was held at Plymouth Church yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Hitchcock presided, and introduced Prof. Tacchella, of Milan, who spoke an hour and a half on the subject of the spread of Christianity in Italy.

The case of Laura Keene vs. Clarke and Stewart, of the Winter Garden Theatre, which was to have come on for agreement on Saturday before the Superior Court at Special Term, has been postponed for one week.

A grand parade of the Metropolitan Police force will take place on Thursday next. About 1,400 men will take part in it.

The arrivals of immigrants at this port during the week numbered 5,504.

Business in most kinds of produce and merchandise on Saturday was restricted, and there was considerable irregularity in prices. Cotton and whisky were firmer. Flour, corn and pork closed in favor of buyers. Petroleum was decidedly dearer. Freights were quiet.

Gold on Saturday 146⅞ per cent. Exchange 108½. Money in fair supply at 7 per cent. on call. Government stocks dull. The railway speculation active, but prices left off tame.

The Trial of the Algonquin and Winooski.—We copy from a scientific journal a calm and disinterested article upon the recent trial of these two steamers. It has been quite apparent from the beginning, that the trial was governed much more by the mutual resentments of Mr. Isherwood on the one side and of Mr. Dickerson on the other, than by regard for the interests of the navy or the spirit and object of the contract. Mr. Forbes agreed to build a vessel for the service which, in the "development of power and economy of fuel," should be at least equal to those which the Navy Department had provided. The agreement was made in good faith and in absolute reliance on similar good faith from the other side. This is shown by the fact that he consented, without objection, that the trial should be made wholly under the direction of the department, assuming, as he had a right to do, that his vessel would be tested as she was to be used,—in the usual service of the navy. If at sea, running at the usual cruising speed, she proved to develop equal power with equal economy of fuel, as other vessels in the service, he would have fulfilled his contract. It never occurred to him that his ship was to be handed over to parties for a scientific prize-fight and to be subjected to precisely such usage as might suit their purposes without regard to his rights. That she would be tied to a dock, instead of being sent to sea—that she would be tried, first for power, without regard to economy of fuel, and then for economy without regard to power, when, for all purposes of practical utility, both must go together—and that her rival should resort to tricks and evasions which would be reacted on a race-course or at a prize-fight, for the purpose of securing a victory, were in such utter violation of the ordinary modes of transacting business between a government and a citizen, that no one could suppose they would be resorted to. Yet the article from the Artisan shows very clearly that this is precisely what has been done. We trust that the Secretary of the Navy will still see the propriety of placing the acceptance of this vessel on some more equitable basis than that thus far adopted, as otherwise the whole question will inevitably be thrown upon Congress for adjustment.

President Johnson's Policy.

We must be excused for again urging the World, the Albany Argus and other Democratic organs, to the necessity of a prompt and vigorous support of President Johnson's "policy of reconstruction." Their zeal and enthusiasm on its behalf during the recent canvass, must be our apology. They then proclaimed themselves its only supporters, or at least the only ones on whom the President could rely; and they especially warned him against supposing for a moment that he could put any faith in Republican professions on that point. Since the election we have not observed quite as much interest on their part in the President's political welfare. They seem less solicitous about his "policy." We are loath to believe that this arises from any loss of confidence, or any change of views. They probably have been so busy in studying the election returns, that they have lost sight for the moment, of matters which seemed to absorb their whole attention down to the first Tuesday of the present month. They will thank, rather than blame us, therefore, for recalling them to their notice.

The President finds some difficulty in securing support for his policy in one or two quarters where it is needed. Mr. Seward had occasion, only a day or two since, to telegraph to the Governor of South Carolina, on behalf of the President, in the following terms:

> "He observes with regret that neither the convention nor the State Legislature has pronounced the debts and obligations contracted in the name of the State for unconstitutional and even rebellious purposes to be void. He equally regrets that the State seems to decline the Congressional amendment of the Constitution of the United States abolishing slavery."

And on Friday last, the President himself found it necessary, in reply to Mr. Reid, who had come to report to him the action of the convention in North Carolina, to say:

> "The Convention of North Carolina has done much and well toward restoring that State to her proper national relations; but something yet remains to be done to render that restoration immediately practicable. An acceptation of the Congressional amendment, abolishing slavery throughout the United States, by the Legislature of the State of North Carolina, is, in my judgment, practically important to the successful restoration which is so much desired by all."

Our Democratic friends will see that in both the Carolinas the President's policy fails thus far to secure the assent required,—and those States cannot, and will not, be "reconstructed" until that assent is given. This must necessarily postpone the time when they can resume their old position in the Union, if the President's policy is to be sustained. We call upon the Argus and the World, therefore, to renew their support and give practical evidence of the sincerity of their professions. The President needs now the redemption of their pledges. Democratic support just now will be of especial value, for it will dispel the delusion under which these States are evidently laboring, that they are to be upheld in resisting the President's policy by the Democratic party in the Northern States. There is too much reason to fear that they look upon the pledges given by that party before the election as intended merely for effect at the polls, and do not dream that they will be regarded as of the slightest consequence, now that the election is over. The Democrats owe it to themselves, as well as to the country, that these delusions should be dispelled. They should give the people of those States distinctly to understand that they can look for no countenance or support from Northern Democrats, in thus resisting and defeating President Johnson's policy of reconstruction.

We regret exceedingly that either of those States should show any hesitation in frankly accepting the terms which the President has offered. Those terms are perfectly reasonable in themselves, and are acknowledged by the Southern people as well as everywhere else, to be generous and liberal. The South plunged into rebellion, and after a long, bloody and expensive war, finds itself defeated. It has no right to expect pardon and restoration without conditions of any kind. The government has not only a perfect right to insist upon the acceptance and guarantee by the South of certain results, as flowing from the war, but it would fail in its duty if it failed to do so. Slavery was the cause of the war, and has been abolished by the war. We have a perfect right, and are in duty bound to require the South to accept that fact, and to take such steps as shall make that acceptance perpetual and irrevocable, before we restore them to the control of their local affairs. The ratification of the constitutional amendment is the form in which that requisition has been made by the President, and both these States seek to evade it, each by passing a State law abolishing slavery within its own limits. They were not asked to do that. It is of no service whatever, either in its direct effect, or as a guarantee for their future action. They have no slavery left to abolish, and any ordinance they may adopt to-day can be recalled to-morrow.

The virtual assumption by South Carolina of the rebel war debt, is quite as unjustifiable. That debt was incurred for the purpose of overthrowing the government, and its payment was made contingent on the success of that endeavor. Everybody understood that it was a venture. Everybody who bought a bond knew perfectly well that if the rebel cause was overthrown, that bond would be worthless. Its recognition now as something to be paid is perfectly gratuitous; it is equivalent to its assumption,—to a volunteer offer to pay a debt, unlawfully contracted in any event and fully discharged by its own terms. For the government to permit this would be to acknowledge, not only the validity of acts performed by the rebel authority, but the claims of men who tried to destroy the government to compensation for their losses and risks in the attempt. Nor is there the slightest probability that these States will ever be able to pay these debts, if they were so disposed. They will have all they can do for many years to come, to carry on their local governments and pay the share of the national taxes which will devolve upon them.

The worst effect of this action on the part of these States is that it strengthens the theory, held by many at the North, that they are insincere in their professions of a loyal temper and purpose. They point to it as proving that they intend only to secure, by whatever professions may seem necessary, a position in the Union where they can be no longer questioned as to their conduct, and that they will then use this position to renew their hostility to the interests of the nation at large. The South would consult its own honor as well as its own welfare if it would strengthen, rather than weaken, the hands of those who have protested against the injustice of such imputations.

The Late Elections a Lesson to the South.

If the Southern people desire an early restoration of their old relations to the Union, it behooves them to mark well the Northern will as evinced in the late elections. The Democratic party, as of old, sets itself up as their particular friend. Its manner of doing this was different in different States. In Pennsylvania, its convention resolutions deplored the war and denounced the manner in which it was prosecuted by the government. In New-Jersey, the main rally was made against the Constitutional Amendment interdicting slavery. In New-York, the canvass was conducted chiefly on a claim of special approval of the policy of President Johnson, which was falsely represented to have for its end an immediate and unconditional restoration of the Southern States. In every Northern State where an election has been held, the Democratic party has taken a position that it believed to be specially agreeable to the South. It has everywhere been beaten. It has been thrown deeper into the dust even than when striving to hamper the government in the war. In every State, from Maine on the Atlantic to Oregon on the Pacific, this party, which has tried to be the special patron of the South, now lies prostrate and powerless.

It would be the greatest of errors to take this new Democratic overthrow as evidence of continued Northern hostility to the South. No such Northern feeling exists, to any appreciable extent. Hardly a Northern man can be found who does not wish well to the South; hardly a man who would not to-morrow, if he could, secure to the South the fullest measure of true prosperity. Nobody wishes to keep the South down, in mere malignity. The war has left behind no vindictiveness, no rancor. The last trace of ill-feeling has disappeared in the splendor of the national triumph. The spirit of the hour everywhere is that of reconciliation. Not only the generous spirit due to fellow-countrymen, but every material interest urges that Northern people should seek the speediest redemption of the South from its calamities. Southern staples are of vast consequence to Northern commerce, and to the regulation of the exchanges with Europe. Every tax-payer in the North has a direct personal interest in the earliest restoration of Southern thrift, whereby the great burden of the national debt may be lightened. It was not because the Democratic party promised to redeem the South that it has been overthrown, but because its spirit and policy, past and present, are at variance with the security and the honor of the country.

The same irresistible Northern majority which maintained the war, have an immovable determination that the peace they have conquered shall be solid, and free from every stain of dishonor. They know that there would be great danger of a failure in this, were the Southern States left absolutely to their own bent, in coming back to their old places. They recognize that every successful war, like the decision of every other ultimate appeal, involves its appropriate consequences. They mean that the legitimate consequences of overwhelming this rebellion shall have their full consummation.

To this end, they are determined, first, that slavery, the cause of the rebellion, shall be annihilated beyond all possibility of a future revival in any form. It is not enough that the lately rebellious States abolish the institution in their present State conventions, inasmuch as that action is no bar against new State constitutions at some future time renewing the servitude of the African race. The Northern people do not intend to leave this matter to the discretion of the present or any future generation of Southerners. They well understand that there are tens of thousands in the old slave States who are longing for the old order of things, and that there are hundreds of thousands whose faith in the practicability of free African labor is but feeble and quite unequal to any of the serious difficulties that may occur. There can be no absolute assurance that, three or five years hence, the Southern legislatures, if free from all external restraint, would not summon new State conventions to devise and establish new relations between the races, which would make an end of the freedom now gained by the weaker race. The Northern people intend to impose that external restraint by an amendment of the Federal Constitution prohibiting slavery forever, and making it the duty of the national government to take care that this prohibition is respected. The Northern States have already ratified that amendment. Other ratifications are required. Until they are given, it must be assumed that the Southern States are unwilling to debar themselves permanently from reviving involuntary servitude. Therefore there can be no restoration until this guarantee is furnished.

So there must be some substantial repudiation of the fatal doctrine of secession. Some of the Southern States which attempted to secede, have shown a virtual adherence to the theoretical right of secession, by simply repealing their "ordinance of secession," as they would any legislative enactment that had been found inexpedient. They have refused to declare it contrary to the Federal Constitution, and therefore absolutely, ab initio, null and void. There are States which hold that the debts contracted to fight the Federal Government have every essential of legal validity, and that taxes must be levied upon all persons within their limits, loyal and disloyal, to satisfy the claims thus entailed by what the national government treats as treason. Now, although a formal renunciation of the dogma of the right of secession might not be insisted upon, no act of these Southern conventions which implies the existence of that right can be accepted. The conventions which adopt such measures must be considered as representing a people still disloyal, and still unfit to be restored to their old constitutional relations.

So there must be some substantial earnest given that the race which has been emancipated by the act of the national government will be protected in their great national rights of person and property. The infamous black codes must be swept out of existence to the last atom. Laws must be established calculated to raise the colored man to full manhood instead of forcing him down to the level of a brute. The Southern States may rely upon it that they will not be put in possession of the unlimited control of the freedmen until they prove that they mean to befriend and not persecute, to benefit and not injure. No such proof has yet been given. We trust that the Legislatures, which will soon assemble, will do all that can reasonably be required of them in this respect. But there can be no taking for granted in advance. The responsibilities of the national government, the protector of these helpless millions, are too solemn to be shifted over to the lately rebellious States without a positive certainty that they will be faithfully fulfilled.

These are the purposes of the Northern people, and of the administration to which they have again, with such emphasis, repledged their support. They are warranted by every consideration of patriotism and justice. The Southern people cannot too soon recognize and conform to them. Let the false lights of the Democratic party be treated with contempt. They beguiled before the rebellion, as the South has found to its cost. They are equally deceptive now. The free and loyal spirit of the land will rule the land as surely as the sun shall rule the day.

The Use of Private Letters for Public or Partisan Ends.

Whatever else of value there may be in the book just published by Ex-President Buchanan, there is one commendable feature presented in the Preface. Mr. Buchanan says that, "from the use of private correspondence he has resolutely abstained." It has become too much the habit with our public men to use for so-called public or partisan ends what was spoken or written in the freedom of personal acquaintance. The temptation to do this is constant, and often the highest moral courage is required to avoid yielding to it. Tested by a strictly ethical rule, the violation of personal or private confidences has the evil effect of making men insincere, hypocritical and double-faced in the intercourse of daily life. There surely ought to be a license for frankness of conversation in private, between men of opposite party views; otherwise society must resolve itself into mutually inquisitorial factions, every man doing the duty of a detective upon his neighbor.

All experience has shown that, where this habit of espionage—for it really amounts to that—most particularly thrives, society becomes demoralized; suspicion, distrust, a total abnegation of honor are the great social features. On the other hand, go among the most disciplined classes in any of the foremost communities of this country or of Europe, and see how entirely sacred and inviolable the best men of these classes hold personal confidence. Take the medical profession; take the counsel for accused prisoners; take the high-minded officer in the field or in the military bureau. What secrets have these intrusted to them—of life and death every day and every hour! What horrible confusion and disorder their indulgence in loose speech—in the habit of telling what they know would cause in the whole structure of society! Why should men, then, who aspire far above any one of these professions—men who aspire to be governors of their fellows—be released from obligations of honor which are deemed incumbent on those in narrower spheres of life? Among men of real honor, whether in professional or political life, the vice of blabbing is not indulged. But there is a class of so-called politicians among us whose entire stock-in-trade seems to consist in their facility for reproducing in public what they gather up as eavesdroppers or confidence-men in private. And to this class clearly belong those who make use of private letters on any pretext, partisan or frivolous, to further some of their special objects.

Mr. Buchanan is certainly not the model of a public man, to which loyal Americans will teach their children to look up for lessons of public virtue. But we think that, in abstaining from using his private portfolio, for the tempting purposes of self-vindication, to which his book doubtless owes its origin, he has set an example that those of his countrymen, similarly situated, might follow with profit. We have no doubt that his private correspondence may include much that would at least mitigate the judgment which the majority of his fellow-citizens have already passed upon the later acts of Mr. Buchanan's administration. But we have equally little doubt that the publication of this correspondence, or an insidious use of its contents, would do far more violence to public morality and individual honor, than could be atoned for by any use that could be made of it to shift the burden of political sins from the back of the Ex-President to the back of any one else. Mr. Buchanan, therefore, in making the prefatory announcement he has made, has done the very best thing he could to bespeak for his defence of his administration a candid hearing from men of sense and honor.

The Pope and the Emperor.—The process of withdrawing the French troops from the Pope's dominion was to be begun on the 1st of this month. As they marched out of their garrison, they were to be replaced, as far as possible, by Pontifical troops. There was talk of dismissing all foreign troops in the Papal service, and retaining only Italians; but the latter were still very backward in volunteering, and great efforts were being made to obtain recruits in Switzerland, Belgium and elsewhere.

Though the French garrisons may be all withdrawn, the Emperor will be as much as ever the defender of the Pope and his temporal power; for it is distinctly understood that if the Pope's subjects, or the Italian "party of action," or the Italian goverment, make any sign of wresting Rome from His Holiness, the French troops will at once return to the Papal dominions for his support.

There is no sign, however, of any movement of any kind against Rome at present. The Italian Government has trouble enough on its hands, and the Garibaldians feel their impotency to effect anything by themselves. What complications may in time take place between European governments, which may furnish the Italian Government its opportunity, it is impossible to foresee; but unless in case of some extraordinary political and military coincidences, the chances are that Pius IX. will die in his own capital, and that the unification of Italy will remain for a season incomplete.

Emigration from Italy.—There is at this time a large emigration in progress from the Southern provinces of the Italian Kingdom to Egypt, consisting chiefly of skilled laborers, artisans and mechanics. The movement is not, we are told, like the Irish exodus, the departure of poor, uneducated people, but it is the very bone and sinew of the Italian nation that is emigrating, the exact material that a country rallying into new life needs and demands. The reason assigned for it is the usual reason assigned in all times for all popular migrations—the desire and expectation of a better condition. The material prospects of Old Egypt are actually at this moment better than those of Young Italy. "The Italians of to-day," writes a correspondent from Italy, "are beset with immeasurable difficulties. They have a hostile clergy, a discontented peasantry, a landed proprietary groaning under heavy taxation, seaports without trade, and capital without movement; brigandage in the south, beggary in the north, a ruined exchequer, and a not very reputable court." And beside all these internal troubles they are in constant peril of war with Austria, and of difficulties with the Pope or the party of action. Egypt, on the other hand, under the new stimulus of the greatly enlarged cotton culture, the prospective commercial advantages of the Suez Canal, and the liberal policy of the existing Viceroy, is giving grounds of belief that she will speedily attain a high and permanent prosperity.

We have no doubt that the valuable stream, if it continue and expand, might be turned in part to this country. We had no fit place for such an emigration formerly, while the South retained slavery. But now, under our genial skies and with free institutions, the Italians of the class referred to as going to Egypt, would flourish luxuriantly; while an infusion into the American veins, of Italian blood, which is yet strong and wholesome, would probably be of benefit.

The Americans in Mexico.—The London Examiner foresees the greatest danger to the Mexican Empire in the American emigration to Mexico, which Maximilian is at this time encouraging. These American adventurers and pioneers are assuredly a restless set, and, when they become strong enough, are not likely to be satisfied with any other rule than their own rule, any other form of government than the free republican form under which they were "raised," and which is so eminently adapted to their character. The idea that such a man as Sterling Price, formerly the great Democratic leader of Missouri, and now residing in Mexico as an agent of the bureau of immigration, has become a reliable convert to the system of imperialism, is preposterous. Henry W. Allen, the late Governor of Louisiana, and who, though now resident in Mexico, was only a few weeks since put forward again prominently as a candidate for the executive chair of that State, is not likely to be long contented with any other style of government than the American style. We would not predicate such ideas of Maury and Magruder, who would accept anything that secures them position and pelf; but of the forty or fifty thousand Americans now resident in the Mexican Empire, we venture to say that very few expect to die under the government of Maximilian.

Striking Intelligence from Mexico.—If we are to believe the New-Orleans reporter of Mexican news, the City of Matamoras is closely beseiged by the Liberal army. The non-combatants are in a state of starvation; and the French troops are barely supplied with food. The latest dispatch from this worthy, it is true, is not entirely consistent throughout. He mentions the arrival of a French steamer with subsistence stores intended for reinforcements of imperial troops, hourly expected, in the same breath that he tells us the place is in a state of starvation. Those who may be excited over this dispatch, will eagerly wait for the next New-Orleans telegram.

An Overweening Estimate.—Hon. A. H. H. Stuart, of Virginia, thinks it of the utmost importance to the welfare of the country, that he should present himself at Washington and demand his seat in Congress, in spite of his refusal to take the oath required by law. If admitted he intends to support President Johnson's policy of reconstruction; if rejected he thinks the Republicans will "place a weapon in the hands of their adversaries which can be used greatly to their disadvantage." Mr. Stuart may possibly discover in time that he overrates his own importance. Virginia and the country at large may be able to dispense with his Congressional services

An Artist Returned.—Those of our readers who are familiar with his works will be glad to learn that Mr. Joseph Fagnani, who has long been celebrated for the excellence of his portraits, has returned from Europe and taken up his residence in New-York. He arrived in the Europe with his family, and has his studio and home at No. 12 East Fourteenth-street. During his absence he has been called to paint portraits of very many of the most distinguished sovereigns and celebrities of Europe, his last excursion of the kind being to Constantinople, where he painted the British Minister and family, as well as the Sultan and leading functionaries of the Turkish empire. He has at his rooms a most excellent likeness of John Bright, a proper companion piece for the portrait of Richard Cobden, which he had with him on his last visit. He will be heartily welcomed by hosts of old friends.

The Tunisian Ambassadors.

Providence, R. I., Sunday, Nov. 12.

The Tunisian Ambassadors and suite, with Consul Perry, arrived here this morning by steamer from New-York, and took rooms at the City Hotel. During the day they received courteous attentions from Mayor Doyle and President Jones of the Board of Aldermen. This afternoon they rode about the city, stopping at the Reform School to witness the Sabbath exercises of the inmates. To-morrow they will visit the University, the Athenæum, and several of the large manufacturing establishments, and be entertained in the evening at the Mayor's residence. It is expected that they will remain in this vicinity until Friday.

Marine Disaster.

Philadelphia, Sunday, Nov. 12.

The bark Speedwell, Matanzas for Boston, put in here leaky. She lost sails, &c., in the gale of the 6th inst., and was towed from sea by the revenue cutter Seward.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

ATALANTA IN CALYDON, A Tragedy. By ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE. 12mo. Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS.

This remarkable work might pass for the production of an old Greek poet, transfused into the metrical forms of our English language. A work more thoroughly embued with classical feeling was never written in modern times. The thoughts as well as the expression have an antique massiveness and simplicity, testifying to the power of the poet, and his ability to identify himself with the heroic age of mythic history, where the plot and scene of his drama are laid. The lyrical choruses reveal a mastery over language, such as few young poets have possessed. Great things may be expected of Mr. SWINBURNE. Nothing in TENNYSON's early writings are half so rich in promise as Atalanta in Calydon.

PRISON LIFE IN THE SOUTH, AT RICHMOND, MACON, SAVANNAH, CHARLESTON, ANDERSONVILLE, &c., DURING THE YEARS 1864 AND 1865. By A. O. ABBOTT, Lieutenant First New-York Dragoons. 12mo. New-York. HARPER & BROTHERS.

Lieut. ABBOTT was taken prisoner during Gen. GRANT's advance through the Wilderness of Virginia, in the Summer of last year, and experienced the tender mercies of the rebels in a great variety of prison camps, &c., until released by the advance of Gen. SHERMAN's army. About half the volume relates to his own endurances; the other portion has been contributed by various fellow sufferers in different regions of the South, so that the book exhibits all the various phases of rebel treatment of their prisoners. Its revelations are almost too painful for general reading, and with the illustrations, form a picture that must never be forgotten, though for the honor of human nature we trust the lessons derived from its exposé will forever prevent a repetition of such horrors. Lieut. ABBOTT's book is indispensable to a comprehension of the spirit in which war was waged by our adversaries.

THE LOVER'S TRIALS, OR THE DAYS BEFORE THE REVOLUTION, by Mrs. MARY A. DENNISON, 8vo. RED COURT FARM, by Mrs. HENRY WOOD, 8vo. Philadelphia: T. B. PETERSON and BROTHERS.

These two works of fiction are the last issues of Messrs. PETERSON's prolific press to which all lovers of light reading are so largely indebted. Mrs. DENISON's book is a novel of the old style, relating to colonial times, with the usual attractions of an interesting plot for the votaries of romance. Mrs. HENRY WOOD ranks among the most popular modern novelists, and her name is a sufficient recommendation for any book to which it is attached.

PRECIOUS THOUGHTS, MORAL AND RELIGIOUS. Selected from the Works of JOHN RUSKIN. By Mrs. L. C. TUTHILL. 12mo. New-York: JOHN WILEY & SON.

Mrs. TUTHILL has done good service to both her author and her readers by this judicious selection. Much of RUSKIN's writing is too technical in subject, and too rhapsodical and erratic in treatment for ordinary students. The gems of thought liberally scattered through his books are often embedded in matter of inferior value, where they would stand a chance of being lost to general view, unless brought forward by a publication like the present. Mr. RUSKIN's own publishers in London have brought out a volume of "Selections" from his writings, so that the principle on which Mrs. TUTHILL has worked has the sanction of RUSKIN himself. Perhaps no other living author could furnish material for so rich a collection of passages, striking from their weighty truth and the splendor of diction that enshrines them.

TWO MEN, a novel, by ELIZABETH STODDARD, 12mo.: New-York, BUNCE & HUNTINGDON.

Mrs. STODDARD has won for herself an independent reputation as a writer of fiction, by imitating no previous author, but by strictly pursuing a course marked out for her by the character of her mind and the scenes and associations of her early life in New England. Strikingly realistic in feeling, she is perhaps deficient in imagination, but few can excel her in placing before the reader the characters and localities that she has had actual experience of. She never wastes words, a clear and sharply cut intellect guides her always on the shortest path to her object, and for this reason her novels almost need diluting or expanding to fit them for the tastes of ordinary readers "Two Men" is in many respects an improvement on "The Morgenson's." A little more indulgence in the usual arts of novelists, will secure for Mrs. STODDARD, the general popularity that the merits of her books so richly deserve.

HESPERUS; OR, FORTY-FIVE DOG-POST DAYS. by JEAN PAUL FREIDRICH RICHTER. Translated by Rev. CHARLES T. BROOKS. 2 vols., 12mo. Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS.

The continuous appearance of Messrs. TICKNORS' editions of RICHTER's works shows the existence of a demand for his writings that few were aware of. So much of this author was always considered untranslatable, that the execution of the task by Mr. BROOKS is in the highest degree creditable to him as a master of the two languages—that in which his author writes, and that which he has to employ in reproducing the airy, limitless fancies and subtle shades of thought so peculiar to JEAN PAUL. Hesperus was his first great success at home; that secured the marked attention of German readers to all his future works. We believe the present is the first translation ever made of it into any language. It is a treasury of high and noble thoughts for all who can overlook the mannerisms and extravagancies that would have seemed like affectation in any other man, but were the natural modes of expression for RICHTER's mind.

POETICAL TRIBUTES TO THE MEMORY OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN. 12mo. Philadelphia: J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co.

The idea was a happy one, to combine in a single volume the scattered voices of song, called forth spontaneously by the fate of our martyr President. It has been well carried out by the editor, Mr. N. KLOTTS, who has assembled an anthology to which many of the more respected names in our literature are contributors. Bryant, Dr. O. W. Holmes; Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, E. C. Stedman, H. T. Tuckerman, R. H. Stoddard, R. L. Willis, Phebe and Alice Carey are authors of some of the choicest poems in the volume, others by unknown hands compete nobly for the poet's wreath in words of natural feeling that the great catastrophe they relate to, called forth from men of all sects, parties, and opinions. The volume is beautifully printed on tinted paper and is embellished with a steel portrait of LINCOLN. No other work published comes into competition with the "Tributes," while at the same time it is indispensable as the finish and complement of all the books that relate to the scenes it discribes.

HAND-BOOK OF THE STEAM ENGINE. Containing all the Rules Required for the Construction and Management of Engines, &c. By JOHN BOURNE, Civil Engineer. 12mo. New-York: D. APPLETON & Co.

This is a companion to the well-known Catechism of the Steam Engine, by the same author, and in connection with that work forms a complete manual of the subject, in a portable form, and at a moderate price. Mr. BOURNE, who ranks among the highest authorities in engineering science, has done much to popularize a study so important in its uses and results, and deserves the thanks of professional men for the practical and unpretending way in which his knowledge is presented to them. The latest improvements in the steam engine are all noticed in Mr. BOURNE's work.

ATLANTIC TALES. A Collection of Stories from the Atlantic Monthly. 12mo. Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS.

This elegantly-printed volume will recall the impression originally made by many favorite stories of former days, which have now literally become "old friends with new faces, when promoted from the parent magazine to the honors of 'separate existence in the hot-pressed pages that exhibit in all their beauty the types of the Cambridge University press. It is needless to praise the contents of this volume, as they have already enjoyed the suffrage of popular favor, and will probably meet with a still wider appreciation in their present elegant shape.

THE WORKS OF EPICTETUS. A translation from the Greek, based on that of ELIZ CARTER, by T. W. HIGGINSON. Crown 8vo. Boston: LITTLE, BROWN & Co.

The old stoic philosopher, as represented by the pious care of his friends and disciples, is here presented to us in the most modern of dresses. What is good in him is for all time, and not for an age or a season, so that the bran-new garb is not as inappropriate as at first sight it might seem to be. Pagan speculation never soared to a higher flight than in the teachings of this poor slave, whose words, transmitted through various channels, have afforded strength, support and mental nutriment to minds of heroic mold in various ages of the world. Mr. HIGGINSON's task has been to smooth the roughnesses of Mrs. CARTER's translation. It is probable that some of the [illegible] derived from her adherence to the Greek idioms has been occasionally pared down to insipidity by his over-officious hand. The volume is a handsome one, and will be welcome to many thoughtful readers.

DANTE, AS PHILOSOPHER, PATRIOT AND POET, with an Analysis of the "Divine Comedia," its Plot and Episodes. By Prof. BOTTA. 12mo. New-York: C. SCRIBNER & Co.

The late realization of the visions of the poet, afforded by the existence of a united Italy, has called attention to the life and works of one who ranks among the few creative minds of the world. Prof. BOTTA's book will supply to the English reader desirous of understanding the man and his relation to the literature and the history of his times, more useful aid than he could procure from any other source. Naturally familiar with the subject, Prof. BOTTA brings to its elucidation the fruit of his own independent researches, as well as the collected results attained by others. The language is remarkable for eloquence, as written by a foreigner, and the whole work is highly creditable to the writer's taste and acquirements.

HANDBOOK FOR TRAVELERS IN EUROPE AND THE EAST. By W. P. FETRIDGE. Fourth yearly issue. New-York: HARPER & BROTHERS.

We have the publishers' assurance for the fact that this fourth edition of the European Guide Book has been revised and brought down in the tenor of its information to the latest possible moment. For those who do not wish to be encumbered with a library of some thirty volumes—such as Murray's Guide Book now form—there is nothing to compare with Messrs. HARPERS compact and well arranged single volume, crammed as closely as a carpet bag with everything useful and indispensable fo every traveler.

OUR BERLIN CORRESPONDENCE.

The Cause of the Negro in Germany—Freedmen's Aid Society—Dr. Schaff's Lectures on America.

BERLIN, Prussia, Friday, Oct. 20, 1865.

The Union has as warm friends in this country as can be found in America itself. With an intense interest the lovers of freedom watch the progress of reconstruction in the Southern States. The condition of the four million uneducated freedmen excites much sympathy here. At a soiree held last Saturday at the rooms of our Ambassador, Gov. WRIGHT, a number of German capitalists and men of influence, including Dr. SCHAFF, Mr. FAY, Dr. ABBOTT and other Americans, passed a resolution to form themselves into a branch of the Freedmen's Aid Society, and to send their contributions to the society in New-York. Many millions have been made here on our bonds, and in aiding us materially, as well as by word and sympathy, the Germans are only paying a debt of gratitude which they owe us.

But among the aristocrats of Germany may be found as bitter enemies of the Union as in the South itself. In what is called the best society, the grossest ignorance of our affairs is often manifested, as well as the worst prejudices and most violent attacks against our institutions. A gentleman of position and influence said a few days ago, "we (the aristocratic party) desired to see your country divided, because such a division would be for the advantage of Germany. We feel too much the influence of your institutions on our own country." NATHUSIUS, the editor of a Prussian journal, stated in his paper, when the news of LINCOLN's murder reached him, "LINCOLN has reaped the fruit of his deeds in a very unexpected manner, but in reality it was of all ways the most adequate." It would be for the interest of Europe, he also states, if that wrong Union republic would go to pieces; and the sooner this is the case, the better.

Prof. PHIL. SCHAFF, of your city, greated quite a sensation this week among this freedom-hating party by delivering two lectures in Berlin, one on the religious condition of the United States, and the other on the late war and slavery. The former was attended exclusively by the religious public, and gave universal satisfaction. It gave a graphic account of the working of the voluntary principle, the progress of our religious, benevolent and literary institutions, the observance of the Lord's Day, the Sabbath schools, the Bible, and Tract Societies, etc. The other attracted a more miscellaneous public, and was listened to with the closest attention by a crowded house, and led to a newspaper controversy which will go on for some days. The Professor proved that slavery was the cause of the rebellion, and not oppression on the part of the National Government. American slavery went into the political contest of 1860, and was bound by every principle of honor to accept the result; but it appealed from the ballot to the bullet, from reason to passion, and committed suicide, which culminated in the assassination of Mr. LINCOLN, the martyr President and Moses of four millions of negro slaves. The Gordian knot which defied the wisdom of all American statesmen was cut by the sword of the slaveholders who thus became the practical abolitionists, verifying the old maxim, "whom the God's wish to destroy, they first make mad." The progress of the war was eloquently traced to its consummation, and the different spirit of the combatants was reviewed, especially as it was manifested in the treatment of prisoners by both parties. After the peroration, in which the learned Professor showed that the results were a blessing for Germany as well as for America, the audience broke out in rapturous applause, and sang in conclusion the German Te Deum "Nun danket alle Gott."

The enemies of the Union, and the Kneuz Zeitung which openly defended slavery and continues to abuse the North, denounce the lecture in the severest terms as well as the audience for applauding it. The hall in which it was delivered is dedicated to religious purposes, and was, these hyper-religious friends of slavery say, never before desecrated by applause. The fact of the matter is, these friends of a ruling class and haters of popular government, feel most keenly the influence of our institutions upon their own country, and therefore wish to see us weakened, divided and destroyed. But the great heart of the German people is with the Union, and the lovers of freedom regard our triumph as a victory for them as well as for our own country.

Yours, etc., J. H. W. S.

A Letter from Hon. John Bright.

From the Madison (Wis.) Journal.

Some time since Adjutant-General GAYLORD, of this State, forwarded a copy of his annual report, accompanied by a letter, to Hon. JOHN BRIGHT, the famous leader of the liberal party in England, and the true and outspoken friend of the United States during the darkest period of our fortunes, when our friends across the Atlantic were few, and, for the most part, timid.

In reply, Gen GAYLORD has received the subjoined characteristic note from Mr. BRIGHT:

ROCHDALE, Oct. 19, 1861.

DEAR SIR: I write to thank you for sending me the volume to which your letter refers.

I thank you also for the kind expressions in your letter. Your war has ended, as I always hoped and believed it would end, in the overthrow of slavery and the restoration of the Union.

I fear, however, that unless the President adopts a firmer tone with the South, the negro will have a hard time of it, if left to the small mercy of his former owners.

It will be a grievous thing, if, after fighting for the integrity and freedom of your country, you shall fail to deal honestly and justly with the black population, so long suffering in your midst.

I have had great faith in you, and will not now abandon it.

Liberty, all the world over, owes much to you, and I will not believe now that color will be permitted to shut out several millions of your population from the full rights of freedom.

Your State has done its share in the great work which will make the last four years forever famous in the history of your great nation.

With many thanks for your kind letter, I am, very truly yours, JOHN BRIGHT.

AUG. GAYLORD, Esq., Adjuant-General, Madison, Wisconsin.

Under the new apportionment for members of the Legislature the ratio for each Representative will probably be 1,025, and for Senators 6,150. This would give Suffolk County six Senators and thirty-six Representatives, instead of five Senators and twenty-eight Representatives, as at present.

CARD

FROM MASON & HAMLIN.

An attack upon us from a dealer in reed-organs appears as a long advertisement in several newspapers. Its animus is so evident that perhaps we are unwise in taking notice of it; yet it seems worth while to correct some of its misstatements.

Having constantly exhibited our Cabinet Organs at Industrial Fairs for several years, in competition with reed-organs from other principal makers, we have been almost invariably awarded the highest premiums, having received FIFTY-ONE GOLD or SILVER MEDALS or diplomas, for the best instruments of this general class, SIXTEEN of which have been within the LAST SIX WEEKS. In two or three cases, however, other instruments have taken premiums over ours. One of these was the case mentioned by this dealer, in which the instruments in which he is interested were awarded a higher premium than our Cabinet Organs. This was not, however, by the "unanimous award" of the judges, as represented by him, but was the award of but three of the five, the other two recognizing great superiority in our instruments, and adjudging them the higher premium, as we learn from copies of their report in our possession.

The decision of the bare majority was, however, against us; and inasmuch as we had been so universally awarded the highest premium before, and from the comparisons we had been able to make between the instruments on exhibition at this fair, were confident that we deserved it, in this case we were not a little surprised at the result. We were, therefore, much interested to have better opportunity for critical examination and comparison of the instrument which had been awarded the higher prize, in order that we might satisfy ourselves whether the award was just, and if we found superiority, that we might learn from it. Being ever anxious to make every possible advance in the quality of our work, we are always glad to learn from any one who can instruct us. To accomplish this we were willing to purchase the prize instrument. Being well aware, however, that if its owner were conscious that it was greatly inferior to our cabinet organs, and that the prize did not justly belong to it, he would not like to have it compared with ours, we applied to another dealer in instruments to purchase it for us, which he did in an open, business way, without any false pretence whatever. Though purchased on Saturday morning, it was not delivered until the following Tuesday, being retained for the expressed purpose of putting it in thorough order. This is mentioned because the seller in his attack upon us intimates that it was badly out of order from five weeks' use.

This "first prize instrument" is now in our warerooms. Its interior has not been touched or examined, or even opened since it came. Those who have any interest in the matter are invited to call and examine, and compare for themselves, and while their surprise at the award of the majority of the judges may not be diminished, (as ours certainly was not, by the closer examination,) they will no longer be surprised at the excessive state of irritation of the dealer in question, in view of opportunity for such odious comparisons.

Whatever may be our private opinions, we do not charge that the premium was obtained for this instrument over ours by any intrigue, or bribery, or any other unfair means whatever, or that the three of the five judges who awarded it a higher premium had any other purpose than that of doing strict justice.

Whether their award, or that of the two who disagreed with them was just, all who choose can have an opportunity to judge for themselves.

For ourselves, the loss of a first premium at one fair, under such circumstances, ought not to trouble us, when we reflect that we have been awarded FIFTY-ONE gold or silver medals, or other first premiums within a few years, of which sixteen have been within the last six weeks.

BROADWAY.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC!
DR. VON EISENBERG'S
ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON,
THE CELEBRATED APPARATUS.

From the New-York Express.

So many able and earnest men are devoting themselves to medical investigation, that it would be strange if new discoveries were not made. Among the most brillant of these—we may indeed say the most brilliant of all—is that of Dr. VON EISENBERG, in regard to the Etherealization of Medicines; we may properly call it the "Spiritualization," since the Latin Spiritus, whence comes our word "Spiritual," signifies primarily, simply 'the air."

Many of the most important and vital organs of the human frame cannot be reached by medicines in a solid or even in a liquid form. Thus the lungs are shut up in a bony chest to which access can be had only through the wind-pipe, the opening of which is closed by a valve, called the "epiglottis," so sensitive and so delicately constructed, that it will not allow the passage, except by main force, of the most minute crumb, or the smallest drop of liquid. Every person who has "swallowed the wrong way" the smallest substance, whether of liquid or solid, knows the feeling of strangulation thereby occasioned. A man cannot, if he would, voluntarily swallow any liquid or solid into the lungs, or the passage leading to them. Herein lies the true reason why Consumption has been so incurable.

As to the entire apparatus, we have no hesitation in saying that we regard it as a wonderful invention—one that, were it not so costly, we have little doubt would be adopted by every hospital and medical college in the country. We are satisfied it would well repay, even if he had to journey all the way from Europe, the scientific man to see and examine it. It is a marvel of mechanical complexity, and yet, when its multiform uses are considered, of extreme simplicity and great beauty. That it will in every respect fulfill the expectations of the inventor, we have every reason to believe. It has been constructed with an accurate knowledge of its ultimate uses. One so experienced in the specialities for which it is particularly intended as is Dr. Von Eisenberg, and for which he has tong felt the necessity in his practice, could make no failure. With it he is enabled to surmount obstacles that were hitherto deemed all but impossible to control. He can now approach with certainty and diagnose thoroughly every disease that, in the course of his extended practice, he aims to master. To those, therefore, who are in any way afflicted with loss of sight or hearing, with catarrh, bronchitis, chest or lung diseases, we earnestly suggest a visit to the consulting apartments of Dr. VON EISENBERG. There he will be speedily made to know the possibility of a cure in even complicated cases. We hereto observe that the apparatus is intended also to bring the etherealized medicines into direct action upon the nerves. The nervous system is the source of many diseases. All physicians admit this, and all profess at least to be able to apply a remedy. The Allopathic, Homeopathic and Hydropathic, by prescribing opiates, anodynes, &c., may, and do, alleviate the pain arising from impaired or diseased nerves; but this does not restore the nerve, it is only temporary relief—a relief, too, to some one nerve at the expense of the entire system. The Æsthetico-Neuralgicon of Dr. Von Eisenberg not merely allays the irritation, but restores the nerve to its normal condition. The Doctor's theory is, that each nerve has a specific office, and has its own peculiar susceptibility. Thus, for example, the nerve of vision is insensible to touch; and, on the other hand, ohe nerve of touch is insensible to light, and so on through the whole system.

From the Journal of Commerce.

We think it is but just to Dr. Von Eisenberg to call public attention to him. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, if not actually praying for death, who are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, trifle not with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the honesty to assure his patients whether it is in his power to make them whole or not.

HEARING RESTORED BY A SINGLE APPLICATION OF THE ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON.

READ! READ!

NEW-YORK, May 4, 1865.

I have been induced, by the great number of certificates continually published in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's skill, to apply to him for advice concerning my deafness of many years' standing. I placed myself under his care, and to my utmost delight he made me hear perfectly well by a single painless application of Dr. Von Eisenberg's "Æsthetico-Neuralgicon." I have great pleasure in being able to state that his skill in restoring hearing surpasses anything I ever saw or heard of. His attention to the patient is highly commendable.

JOHN WAKELY, No. 104 Monroe-st.

MIRACULOUS CURE OF THE CHRONIC CATARRH, ASSUMING THE FORM OF CONSUMPTION.

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, and a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting of blood. I have been treated by many eminent physicians without success. Recently the Catarrh became so offensive that I could not go into society. Hearing of DR. VON EISENBERG'S new invention, I thought I would apply to him as a last resource. Having been satisfied with his diagnosis, I submitted to his treatment, and have every reason to be abundantly satisfied, as I am completely cured, and my health so much renovated that I feel better than I felt for the last fifteen years. It is a blessing that experience gives the Doctor the power to restore such a shattered constitution to perfect vigor. I now feel very happy to be able to give this testimonial in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's inimitable skill.

RESTORATION OF SIGHT.

I, Lawrence Grenna, No. 186 East 36th-st., New-York City, have been suffering from blindness of the left eye for a considerable period. The eye was continually in a state of great inflammation, from which the good eye became affected, and, indeed, my general health was greatly injured by it. Hearing of Dr. Von Eisenbergs' great reputation, and as every one said mine was a hopeless case, I called on the Doctor, who, after examining me, undertook my case, and within a fortnight I found myself almost completely cured. It is now a month since I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's treatment, and I am happy to be able to state that the inflammation is entirely gone, so that I see perfectly with both eyes, added to which I am in good health—a blessing I have not enjoyed since I was blind. I do conscientiously and gratefully swear to the above statement, in a court of justice, at the City Hall of the City of New-York, the 10th day of October, 1864.

LAWRENCE GRENNA.

Sworn before me this 10th day of October, 1864.

A COLLECTION OF THE MOST NOTABLE LOVE POEMS IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. In 1 vol. crown 8vo, printed by Alvord, in two colors, on superfine extra calendered tinted paper, bound in extra illuminated cloth, full gilt, $7; in Turkey extra or antique, $10. Each style put up in a box.

The editor of this work announces his aims to be, besides grouping together the finest love poems of our tongue, to present a view of the progress of the class of poetry treated, from the earliest date to the present day. There is no love poem of note omitted, and with all those gems long known to the public, there are numerous others hitherto overlooked because of the demerits of the authors in other fields of literary labor, or because they were the single songs of those who never sang well but once. Arrayed with reference to the dates at which the authors flourished, the poems furnish a fair view of the progress of erotic poetry, and allow a comparison of styles and merit, not to be otherwise attained, except by laborious and not over-profitable reading. Every shade of human passion, except the sensual, is illustrated; and it confers credit on the editor, to see how happily pure is the result of his labors.

It is believed that this work will be found the most complete and best arranged in its contents, as it is the most elegant in mechanical execution. The author has brought to light the most precious ores he could find in his explorations in the wealthy mines of amatory poetry, and the result is a work which sparkles with the love thoughts of all ages.

CANADIAN OIL REGION,
BOTHWELL, CANADA WEST.
PUBLIC SALE OF ABOUT 1,500 ACRES
CHOICE OIL LANDS, WITH OIL WELLS.

The BOTHWELL LAND AND PETROLEUM COMPANY, commonly called the "Scotch Company," owning the town of Bothwell and 6,000 acres of land around it, will offer for sale, by auction, 1,500 acres of their choicest territory, with the view of attracting oil operators to the fuller development of this important oil region.

The lands to be sold immediately adjoin the Pepper or Boston, Lick, Colville, Victoria, and all the other yielding wells in the district. They embrace the well-known Chambers and Thames yielding wells, also others which are now being put down. They are all within two miles of the railway station and town of Bothwell, and front on the River Thames and the Longwood road. They comprise Lots Nos. 13, 14, 15, River Range; Lots Nos. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, Longwood Road Range; and Lot No. 12 on the Tenth Concession. All in the Township of Zone, County of Kent.

Bothwell is a rapidly increasing town, and has hotels, machine and blacksmiths' shops, and all conveniences for supplying the wants of operators. It is a principal station on the Great Western or Canada Railway, which runs from Detroit to Niagara Falls, and is reached in 24 hours from New-York, and 14 hours from Chicago by express trains twice each way daily.

The lands will be put up for sale in lots of from 5 to 25 acres, a road allowance being provided to each lot.

A deposit of 20 per cent. will be required on purchase, 30 per cent. within one month, and the balance in four quarterly installments of 12½ per cent. each. For the deposit of 20 per cent., American Government or first-class State or railway bonds to an adequate amount will be taken as security instead of cash, until the buyers have time to convert. This will render it unnecessary for buyers from the United States to be provided with Canadian funds until after they actually purchase.

The sale will take place at BOHTWELL, on THURSDAY, 23D NOVEMBER,
at 11 o'clock, forenoon.

Intending purchasers are invited to inspect the lands. All further particulars can be had, and plans of the property as subdivided for sale can be seen, at the office of the company, Bothwell. JOHN WALKER,

MEDICAL.

THOUSANDS ARE TIMELY SAVED BY Dr. KENNEDY'S skillful and improved treatment.—Private diseases cured in the shortest possible time by Dr. KENNEDY & CO., No. 195 Elm-st., New-York, without the use of mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. KENNEDY, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. KENNEDY, No. 195 Elm-st. Call, send or write.

A. M. MAURICEAU, PROFESSOR OF midwifery and operating surgeon, having over thirty years' successful practice in this city, guarantees a safe and immediate removal of all special irregularities and obstructions in females, without pain or exposure, with or without medicine. Can be consulted with the utmost confidence at his private office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York, or by mail.

Dr. A. M. Mauriceau is the author of "The Married Woman's Private Medical Companion," strictly intended for those whose health and circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family; a perusal of which will convince any lady of his thorough knowledge of her complaints. Every lady who has it is secure from danger and imposition. Price $1. Sold at his office No. 129 Liberty-st., or sent by mail, by addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. Sold also at No. 1 Vesey-st., New-York; in Boston, No. 13 Court-st.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH regained in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habits? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALTER POWERS, M. D. No. 195 Elm-st. New-York.

ADVICE TO MARRIED LADIES.—MADAME RESTELL, Professor of Midwifery, having over thirty years' successful practice in this city, guarantees a safe and immediate removal of all special irregularities and obstructions in females, with or without medicine, at one interview, or by mail. Can be consulted with the utmost confidence at No. 162 Chambers-st. Her infallible French Female Pills, No. 1, price $1, or No. 2, which are four degrees stronger than No. 1, and can never fail, are safe and healthy, price $5, can be sent by mail. Also sold at the druggist's, No. 152 Greenwich-st., near Liberty-st. Madame RESTELL deems it her duty to caution ladies against imitators, who not only deprive them of their means, but their health.

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL CONSULTATIONS.—Dr. R. COBBETT can be consulted with the most honorable confidence on private diseases at his conveniently-arranged suite of offices, No. 20 Centre-st., between Chambers and Reade sts., having a private entrance at No. 6 City Hall-place. From Dr. C. being one of the oldest, and probably the only qualified physician and surgeon in this city who makes diseases of the genitourinary organs a specialty, he is thus enabled to guarantee speedy and permanent cures, or make no charge. Strictures of the urethra, seminal weakness, nervous and general debility treated on the most scientific principles. N. B.—Dr. C.'s diplomas, in his office, as member of the New-York University Medical College, and College of Surgeons, London. Office hours, 9 A. M. to 8½ P. M.

DR. COOPER, NO. 14 DUANE-ST., MAY be confidentially consulted on all diseases of a private nature. A practice of 30 years, devoted to the treatment and cure of syphilitic, mercurial and diseases of a delicate nature, enables Dr. C. to make speedy and permanent cures, no matter of how long standing the case may be. Strictures of the urethra and seminal weakness, brought on by a secret habit, effectually cured. The victims of misplaced confidence, who have been misled by quack advertisements, can call on Dr. C. with the certainty of being radically cured or no charge made.

THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR FEMALES, No. 7 Beach-st., New-York, conducted by Dr. DURANT & CO., is fitted up elegantly, expressly for the convenience of ladies requiring nursing during confinement, and the utmost attention is paid to the comfort and welfare of the patient. The strictest confidence always observed. Competent nurses in constant attendance.

Expressly for obstinate cases. Warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. ☞ Beware of imitations! Purchased directly of Dr. POWERS, No. 195 Elm-st., New-York.

DR. DURANT OFFERS, WITH CONFIDENCE to the ladies, his celebrated remedy for the removal of all irregularities or obstructions; relieves after all other so-called remedies have failed. Ladies, try it. Office No. 7 Beach-st., New-York.

ADVICE AND AID EFFICIENTLY RENdered by Dr. H. A. BARROW, author of medical work "Human Frailty;" price 25 cents. No. 194 Bleecker-st., four doors below Macdougal-st., New-York.

DR. HUNTER'S BOTANIC CORDIAL restores the vigor of youth in four days. Gives health, strength and vigor to the most shattered system. $5 a bottle. No. 3 Division-st., New-York, the only place.

DR. DURANT INSURES THE LADIES a speedy relief from all special irregularities and obstructions at one interview. No. 7 Beach-st., New-York.

GENTLEMEN CAN, WITH CONFIDENCE, consult Dr. LEWIS, at his old-established office, No. 7 Beach-st., three doors from West Broadway, New-York.

MANY THOUSANDS ARE RUINED BEYOND REDEMPTION in this life by not calling on Dr. HUNTER sooner or later. He can cure the worst cases of secret disease in a shorter time than any other physician, or no pay taken. Skeptics and doubters will please call and read lists of reliable certificates of cures made within the last thirty years of almost hopeless cases, that had had the benefit of dozens of our most eminent physicians and surgeons. Dr. Hunter is in constant attendance from 8 in the morning till 9 at night, at his old office, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City, since 1834. Charges moderate, and a cure guaranteed. Separate rooms, so that the patient sees no one but the Doctor himself. His wonderful medical discovery, DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures private diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, and possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. $2 per vial. Book, 50 pages, gratis, on nervous debility, causes of impotency, marasmus, &c.

Among the many and most valuable improvements introduced by Messrs. STEINWAY & SONS in their Piano-fortes,

THE SPECIAL ATTENTION OF PURCHASERS.
is directed to their
PATENT AGRAFFE ARRANGEMENT.

The value and importance of this invention having been practically tested, in all their grands and highest-price square Piano-fortes, and admitted to be the greatest improvement of modern times, they now announce that they have determined to introduce their "Patent Agraffe Arrangement" in every Piano-forte manufactured by them, without increase of cost to the purchaser, in order that all their patrons may reap the full advantage of this great improvement.

Extract from the testimonial of the most distinguished Artists to STEINWAY & SONS:

Among the chief points of the uniform excellence of the STEINWAY Pianos are:

Greatest possible depth, richness and volume of tone, combined with a rare brilliancy, clearness, and perfect evenness throughout the entire scale, and, above all, a surprising duration of sound, the pure and sympathetic quality of which never changes under the most delicate or powerful touch.

We therefore consider the STEINWAY Pianos in all respects the best instruments made in this country or in Europe, use them solely and exclusively ourselves in public or private, and recommend them invariably to our friends and the public.

NAVAL ENGINES.

The "Algonquin-Winooski" Trial.

From the American Artisan.

We reported last week that the Algonquin was evidently ahead of the Winooski, and for a period of three hours had developed 19 per cent. more power, burning an equal amount of fuel. She continued to gain during fifty-six of the ninety-six hours of the trial. It is alleged by the friends of the Winooski that she then began to lose. On the other side it is alleged that for some hours the Winooski had throttled with her stop-valves, thereby evading the agreement to work with her throttles wide open. In reply to this it is alleged that it is frivolous—a mere excuse for backing out of the contest; and that the reason for backing out was, that the boilers of the Algonquin were leaking, and other matters were out of order, and she could not have kept at work four hours longer. It is also alleged by Mr. DICKERSON that one of the Winooski's wheels, which had the outer ends of its paddles knocked off by collision with a coal barge, was relieved of much of its resistance; and that when the barge got foul of the Winooski her wheels ought to have been stopped; and the reason they were not stopped was, that the Algonquin had proved herself the superior, and the Winooski managers wished to gain an advantage by knocking off the paddles. To this the Captain of the Winooski replies (to the Tribune's reporter) that had the wheel been stopped it would have been much more damaged.

Our own opinion is that both parties have been equally and extremely anxious to get the victory; that both have used every available expedient to do it; and have made the most favorable representations of their own cases; and that the impatience naturally excited by a protracted trial has had undue influence on their judgment.

To speak lightly, or not at all, as some have done, of the relief of the paddles by knocking off their ends, shows a lack of cool judgment. The paddles were nine feet long, and their ends overhung about one foot. As nearly as we could see, only two out of the twenty-four overhanging ends remained entire; and the total value of all that remained was not more than 20; and the surface broken off was about 1-20th of the whole surface of both wheels; that is, the resistance was lessened 5 per cent.

To speak of throttling as a matter of little account is consistent with the view that expansion is of little or no use; but since the question is chiefly whether expansion is useful or not, it cannot be allowed. When an engine cuts off at about half-stroke, throttling produces partial expansion. BOURNE long ago noticed this; and Mr. ISHERWOOD, in his new volume on experiments, recognizes it. It was, therefore, not unreasonable that Mr. DICKERSON, who believes that expansion is of great use, should have been particular to require an open throttle, and should have regarded a partial closing of the stop-valves as virtually violating the condition.

There is another point of immense consequence. The boilers of the Algonquin are stated by Mr. DICKERSON to have 2,500 feet of heating surface. How much the Winooski has we have not been able to ascertain precisely; but those of the Mackinaw, one of the same class and lot of vessels, have 5,036 feet in the water, and 171 feet of superheating surface in the steam chimneys, making in all 5,207 feet—more than double that of the Algonquin. And probably the Winooski's boilers have more than this surface, for they have 3,300 tubes, whereas the Mackinaw's have but 3,200. Now in the experiments on the boiler of the San Jacinto—the same type of boiler as the Winooski's—when the combustion per foot of heating surface was doubled, the vaporization per pound of fuel fell from 9.725 to 6.507 pounds. This shows that the Winooski's boilers, with the same fuel, should have made .556 more steam than the Algonquin's, if they were equal in quality.

It should be mentioned that the Winooski carried the water in her boilers about five inches below the bottom of her glass gauge, an additional glass gauge being put on lower down. Whether it was below the upper ends of the tubes we do not know; but in a trial of the Mackinaw the water was carried five inches below the upper ends of the tubes, to superheat the steam, and the power developed was about 12 per cent. greater than when the water was carried above the ends of the tubes. As Mr. DICKERSON was forced to this dock trial, and as this way of superheating cannot be used at sea, some allowance should be made for it. His own boiler has considerable superheating surface which is available at sea, and it is but fair that he should have the advantage of it in a trial of the practical advantages of his machinery.

Some differences have been made in the statement of the point at which the Winooski's engine cuts off. We stated it .455. The superintending engineers, Messrs. DANBY, FITHIAN, and KELLOGG, stated it at 475. Mr. LONG, chief-engineer, had the wheels moved round by hand, and observed the positions of the cross-head when the valves came to their seats, and found the cut-off at 58 inches on one end and 72 inches on the other, the stroke being 105 inches, and the average cut-off .619. But the Stevens valve-gear seats the valve slowly, and makes it act as a wire-drawing cut-off. It is, therefore, incorrect to say either that it cuts off at .619 or at .455, or .475, as computed from the indicator cards; it works the steam to a considerable extent expansively before it completely cuts it off; and this the cards show. Whereabouts it cuts off, or how much it expands, we cannot say.

These points considered, it appears to us that the Algonquin's engine, during the three hours we reported her as developing 19 per cent. more power than the Winooski's, really did more. Had her boilers had as much heating-surface as that of the Winooski, she would have developed 85 per cent. more power than the Winooski.

We come now to the allegation that the Algonquin's machinery cannot keep in order during 96 hours, and is, therefore, worthless. And in support of this allegation it is argued that the high pressure of 70 pounds is too much for any marine boilers or engines. This opinion is adverse to that of FAIRBAIRN, who predicts that 500 pounds pressure will be successfully used, and to the practice of RANDOLPH and ELDER, who have used over 200 pounds in marine engines, and with reported success. It is also adverse to the ordinary practice in locomotives, which work with 120 to 150 pounds pressure without inconvenience, yet are jolted with a violence unknown to marine engines.

This trial is part of a controversy between Mr. ISHERWOOD and others, who deem it best to work at a pressure not over 35 pounds, and to cut off at .6 or .7 of the stroke, and Mr. DICKERSON and others, who deem it best to carry a much higher pressure, and cut off much earlier. It is unfortunate for the interests of engineering, and of the navy, that the controversy has been to a great extent personal and acrimonious; and it behooves all who are desirous to learn the results, to resist the influences that tend to make them sympathize with either party. It also behooves them to keep in view the main question, which is, not whether the Algonquin's machinery is well and durably constructed, but whether it proves that the old theory of expansion is in the main true.

If the Algonquin's boilers be leaky, and her engine soon out of order, as is alleged, doubtless it is a reason why they should not be accepted until they are made serviceable; but the defects, if any, there be, strengthen the evidence in favor of expansion. If, when the Algonquin certainly developed 19 per cent. more power from the same fuel, and possibly 85 more from the same weight of water, her boiler was leaking, she would have done still more had her boiler been tight. And it will not be satisfactory to assert that the economy of working is incompatible with durability of the working parts, while there are builders ready to make high-pressure work well, and to produce the economic results without the alleged imperfections or failures in the boilers or engine.

It is reported in some papers that the experts who have directed the trial are of the opinion that the vessels are about equal in efficiency. We doubt this statement. And if they have given such an opinion, it must have been given without due consideration of the diminished resistance of the Winooski's wheel, the throttling of her steam by the stop-valves, and, above all, of the enormous disparity in the heating surfaces.

We cannot see in this case anything to weaken our faith in higher pressure and a higher rate of expansion than the present naval managers approve.

THE TROTTING TURF.

Fashion Course, L. I.

Match for $400; mile heats, best three in five in harness, between Young Dutch, five years old, and the Infant, four years old. Young Dutch was the favorite, at odds of five to one on him, and the result merited the confidence of his backers, as he got away with the lead in all three heats, maintained it throughout, and won each with the greatest ease, though the Infant is fast for so young an aspirant for trotting honors, and will, doubtless, next season, if he goes on, show a vastly improved form.

A New Political Club.

A large number of prominent and influential gentlemen in the Democratic party have just completed the organization of a club to be called the Manhattan. The objects of the members are to advance the doctrines of their political creed, promote social intercourse and provide themselves with the conveniences of a club-house. The number of the resident members is limited to five hundred, and the initiation fee is fixed at $150 and the annual dues at $50, with power vested in the management to assess individual members for an additional fifty dollars. The rules for the government of the organization are not dissimilar to those enforced in other respectable clubs—two black balls excluding any candidate for membership. The club-house will be open every day for the reception of its members, at 7 o'clock in the morning. No member will be admitted between 2 and 7 o'clock in the morning, but members in the house at any time are not to be influenced as to their departure by this or any rule. No games will be played in the club on Sunday, and no round game or games of hazard at any time, and no person shall bet more than five dollars on any game.

The following officers have been chosen: President, JOHN VAN BUREN; Vice-President, Augustus Schell; Treasurer, W. Butler Duncan; Secretary, Manton Marble; House Committee—George W. McLean, Henry Hilton; Managing Committee—Wm. F. Allen, August Belmont, James T. Brady, S. L. M. Barlow, Horace F. Clark, Edward Cooper, Geo. Ticknor Curtis, Edward L. Corlies, Wm. THE FREEDMEN.

Interesting Statements Concerning their Condition in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee—Addresses by Brig.-Gen. Fiske and Rev. Mr. French.

Among the audience which gathered in the Church of the Puritans, last evening, to hear the statement of Chaplain FRENCH and Gen. FISKE, about the freedmen, a dicided infusion of the colored element was noticeable.

After the usual preliminaries Mr. FRENCH first addressed the meeting. He described the sources of his information, as a series of public meetings of planters and freedmen, addressed by him throughout a range of country extending across South Carolina and Georgia, to Andersonville and the Alabama line. There are among the planters a considerable number who were opposed to secession and wish well to the freedmen. But a majority of the whites regret the defeat of the rebellion, maintain that they still own their slaves, and at the worst intend to claim compensation for them. A considerable number of whites intend to emigrate, from disgust at abolition. These men, it is believed, will make trouble before they go, if they can; they would prefer to leave behind them a bonfire or blood, rather than not. They will stir up the freedmen to insurrection, if practicable. But the freedmen themselves are well-disposed. Many of them have, in fact, believed that the lands and stock of the South were to be divided among them at Christmas, and to some extent they had even begun to divide by stealing; but they readily acceded to the requirements of the government to let the property alone. And, although they feel themselves very hardly pressed, they intend to abstain from all violence. One chief obstacle in the way of the freedmen is the obstinate prejudice of nearly all the planters against permitting negroes to own land or to be taught in school. Their reason is, that if landholders, the freedmen must be taxed, and if taxed they must vote; and in like manner, that if they go to school they will become intelligent and will demand the franchise. Not one Southern woman has been found who would teach a colored school. In a large Southern town the business men combined together in a regular plan to shut all colored persons out of business. In another place the physicians combined to refuse attendance on freedmen without their fees in advance. All along Mr. FRENCH's route, as recently as last August, freedmen had been, on various pretexts, shot, flogged or mangled by dogs or otherwise abused, by planters, apparently as a deliberate gratification of their rage. A chief trouble, that none in the South can cure, is the inability to feed the great masses of blacks which were concentrated in some parts of the country, to get them out of the way of SHERMAN'S and other marches. The season has been a poor one; there is no provision for the colored men; if starvation makes them steal, and the whites go out after them in retaliation with dog and gun, a very dangerous state of things must arise. So great is the need in Georgia, that unless speedy relief is given, fifty thousand of the freedmen must perish this Winter in that State alone. Gen. SWAYNE, of Alabama, says that forty thousand more will die in that State. Mr. French concluded with an appeal for contributions in money and clothing; saying that thirty-five thousand of blankets alone are needed for South Carolina, and fifty thousand more for Georgia.

Gen. FISKE, who followed Mr. FRENCH, began by explaining that in his district, (Tennessee, Kentucky and Northern Alabama,) things are not in so bad a state as within the area of Mr. FRENCH's observations, though they are bad enough. In seeking to aid the freedmen by means of the Freedmen's Bureau, Gen. FISKE said, the first rule he found necessary was that the coöperation of the whites must be secured, and he went to work to secure it. One means of doing this was to find a good agent for the bureau in each county. In defining the sort of men needed for these posts, Gen. FISKE told a gentleman who asked him, that the sort of man required was such as Jethro recommended to Moses, viz.: who loved justice, hated covetousness, and spoke the truth. The gentleman wrote him back word, after inquiry, that there was no such man in his county, and that the bureau consequently could not be established there. In Kentucky, still a slave State, there will be much more suffering this Winter than in Tennessee. Most of this will be among the families of the 50,000 Union soldiers enlisted from Kentucky, of whom many are now serving in Texas. Large numbers of such families are already gathered in large towns, both sides of the Ohio, and at Camp Nelson, and elsewhere, and are suffering for food. The Kentuckians hate the freed people, and steal and reënslave them whenever they can. Gen. FISKE had this very day had occasion to write to his subordinate, at Camp Nelson, special orders to prevent this man-stealing, and had avowed that rather than to permit one free person to be thus reënslaved, he would be cashiered at once. The belief so extensive among the Negroes that they were going to receive lands, arose very naturally, from the facts that, Congress promised it by law. 2. The Northern soldiers told the negroes it would be so; and 3, their masters consistently asserted that if the Yankees should win, it would be so. The stories of vice and idleness among the freedmen are false. There is less of it among the black people than among the whites. In one savings bank for the colored people there is already $200,000. Tennessee will probably admit colored people to the witness-box. No other State is likely to do it immediately. Gen. FISKE said that the worst enemies of the negroes in Tennessee are not the old slaveholders, but the Unionist East Tennesseeans. These, and Gov. BROWNLOW with them, really wish the negroes out of the State; while Gen. PILLOW, for instance, a large slaveholder, is building a school-house and providing teachers for his former slaves. There is a terrible contrast between the peaceful contentment of the colored people in Missouri, where they are by law competent to testify and their children may attend school, and the disturbance and misery which fill Kentucky from one end to the other. This, continued the General, is a terrible picture in this fifth year of the war—for I count the war not ended until slavery is destroyed.

Gen. FISKE's statements were repeatedly interrupted by applause; and he closed with a fervent appeal for justice from the United States, which was enthusiastically responded to by the audience.

Before the audience departed, the Secretary of the American Missionary Association briefly expounded the objects and condition of that society, and a collection was taken up, half for the Association and half for the benefit of a crippled colored man who was present, who had been reduced to an almost helpless state by rebel cruelty for being a Unionist.

The Musical Mutual Protective Union.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

The difficulty now existing between the theatrical managers and the musicians seems to be misunderstood by the public at large, who, judging from the crowded state of those places of amusement, appear to take no interest in it, thus tacitly encouraging the managers' combination in their endeavors to withhold a fair remuneration from a large number of their employes. It cannot be denied, we think, that the members of the musical profession, as a class, can justly claim the respect and support of the community at large, for they materially contribute, by their genius and untiring industry, to cater to the entertainment of those who patronize places of public amusement. We are satisfied that if an unvarnished and candid statement of the reasons which induced them to demand a fair remuneration for their services (and that is all they ask) were given to the people, the verdict of the people, which is always the arbiter of justice and humanity, would be unanimously opposed to the despotic action of a set of men who have combined in their endeavors to forward their own selfish interests, regardless of the claims of a too generous public. This "close corporation" of rapacious theatrical directors affords another striking illustration of a truth which is familiar to the working class by bitter experience—viz.: that capital is almost invariably combined against labor. In the light of this truth we believe that we are not asking too much of laboring men of every class to stand by the musicians and support them in their just demands for a fair remuneration for their services.

The public have only heard and read one side of the question; the press as a body, with few exceptions, has taken sides with the managers, and the only avenues through which the public could be made acquainted with the facts of the case have been closed against them.

The Mutual Musical Protective Union was organized in 1862 for the purpose of protecting the members and their interests, such a society long having been needed to protect the profession from impostors who had entered its ranks, and by dint of smart management had the business all in their own hands, and paid the performers whatever they saw fit, oftentimes pocketing the amount due the musicians for their whole engagement. If a member of a band or orchestra complained, he was suspended or excluded from the business altogether; so that many a musician had quietly to submit to every imposition which the dishonest leader might see fit to impose upon him—to receive a bare pittance, scarce sufficient to sustain life. We can mention one theatre where the musicians received only four dollars and some sixty cents per week, and even that miserable sum was not paid with due regularity.

Managers have never considered engagements with musicians as contracts binding for a season, and when their business has been bad they have always reduced the number and the salaries of their musicians.

The statement that the musicians had given but very short notice, which has been frequently made by the managers lately, in reference to the desire of the musicians that they should submit to their demands at once, is not true. One of the managers alleges that he received but fifteen minutes' notice to accede to the demands of his orchestra. This is a grossly incorrect assertion, inasmuch as he had received ten days' notice; and beside this, at a meeting of the Musical Protective Union, held in July last, a resolution was introduced by a member demanding an increase of salary, which, after considerable debate, was laid on the table. As this fact was made known at once, the managers have had ample notice of the present strike as well as time to accede to the just demands of the musicians.

The public have tamely submitted to an unwarranted rise in the price of admission, which was asked by the managers to meet the "enormous increase in their expenses;" and yet they pretend, with all this, that they cannot pay the musicians their just demands, notwithstanding the largely increased receipts attendant on the advanced entrance fees. They tell the members of the Union—their old employes—that they cannot possibly meet their demands for $20 per week; and yet they advertise for and pay readily from $20 to $40 per week to musicians outside this association.

The present strike is by no means of a national character; that is, it belongs to no particular nationality, but is purely one involving a fair and just demand for payment for services faithfully rendered by the musical profession, who are organized into a Mutual Protective Association, as before stated. As this organization numbers in its ranks members of all nationalities, no such denomination can be attached to the strike. The society is a large and prosperous one, embracing from eleven hundred to twelve hundred members. In case of sickness or want among any of the members, relief is always afforded from the treasury. The cry of monopoly for any particular class of musicians cannot here be raised, as one dollar entrance fee is all that is asked to become a member of this union; and surely no emigrant musician can object to this as an exorbitant admission fee.

To those of the profession of this city, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and elsewhere, who have been solicited to accept an engagement by the New-York managers at the large salaries offered just now, we would say, beware of confiding in any such promises, as they are made but to be broken, and the makers will soon unite to crush you down. Moreover, you are guilty of a great injustice to your brother members of the musical profession, who are now being supported at the expense of the Musical Protective Union.

MUSICAL PROTECTIVE UNION.

THE POLICE COURTS.

The Tombs—Before Justice Dowling.

INCENDIARISM AND ARREST.

On Saturday afternoon, Officer HUNT, of the Sixth Precinct, arrested one STEPHEN H., alias Reuben, BROWN, on a charge of setting fire to the grocery store owned by HERMANN SCHORLING, at No. 8 Elizabeth-street. The accused was committed to await the result of the Fire Marshal's investigation. It subsequently appeared, by the evidence adduced in the presence of that official, that the accused had rented a room adjoining the grocery store, in which stood a barrel containing some thirty-two gallons of kerosene, leaving the same a few minutes afterward in a rather hurried manner. He closed the door of the room, and asked a young man named EDWARD GRACE to accompany him to the front part of the building. GRACE followed him, and they had scarcely reached the front of the store, when the alarm was given. Mr. SCHORLING rushed into the adjoining room, and found that the barrel was surrounded by flames, and the faucet so burned that the oil was pouring forth and igniting as it fell upon a box on which the barrel was placed. With great presence of mind, Mr. SCHORLING at once dragged the barrel from the room, burning his hands in a shocking manner, and extinguished the flames by means of a few buckets of water. The testimony of Mr. GRACE further showed that the accused had been in the room about half an hour previous to the occurrence, and it is supposed that during that time he made all preparations and applied the match. BROWN denies having even entered the apartment, and Mr. SCHORLING can assign no cause for the act. Fire-Marshal BAKER still has the matter under investigation before Justice DOWLING.

THEFT OF A WALLET.

JAMES DOLAN, a well-known character, was arraigned, yesterday, charged with having stolen a wallet containing $250 in cash and checks for the same amount, from Mr. JOSEPH A. CONDIT, of Orange, N. J. The complainant was leaving the cars at the foot of Barclay-street, when his daughter who accompanied him, noticed DOLAN acting rather suspiciously. A moment later, Mr. CONDIT missed his wallet and gave DOLAN in charge of an officer, but failed to recover the missing property. The accused was committed for examination.

A JERSEY OFFICIAL AS A PUGILIST.

On Saturday night JAMES H. DONNELLY, Coroner of Jersey City, while in the Girard House, lost a large sum of money, which was stolen from his person, and subsequently became involved in a fight with one GEO. CARTER, a runner, rather unfavorably known. CARTER sustained a fracture of the arm and was badly beaten. Officer DUNSTROP, of the Third Precinct, took Mr. DONNELLY in custody, and on the morrow Justice DOWLING discharged the prisoner, thanking him for the service he had rendered the community in giving Mr. CARTER his just deserts.

OBTAINING GOODS ON A FORGED ORDER.

MAX IRELANDER was arrested on Saturday, and charged with having presented to the firm of J. F. DAVIS & Co. a forged order, bearing the signature of R. KESNER, of Brooklyn, for twelve pairs of calfskin boots valued at $60. The goods were delivered to the accused, but suspicions being entertained as to the genuineness of the check, IRELANDER was tracked, and was seen to deliver the boots to ADOLPHUS BECKER, who, with IRELANDER, was taken into custody. Justice DOWLING committed both men for examination.

ALLEGED SHOPLIFTING.

Officer FIELD, of the Fifth Precinct, arrested CHARLES ALLEN, of Albany, N. Y., who, by the affidavit of JAMES BLACK, a clerk in the employ of H. B. CLAFLIN & Co., stands charged with having attempted to steal from that establishment a piece of black lace valued at $100. ALLEN was detained for examination.

THEFT OF A SHOW-CASE IN BROADWAY.

A show-case, containing seven hundred dollars' worth of jewelry, was stolen from in front of the store of THOMAS B. BYNNER, No. 189 Broadway, on Friday evening. Officer DWYER, of the Third Precinct, subsequently found the property in the possession of JAMES MCKENNA and CHARLES HENRY, who were drawing the show-case through Greenwich-street in a hand-cart. The men said that the goods belonged to them, but the officer arrested them on suspicion. The owner soon appeared at the station-house and identified the property. On Saturday Justice DOWLING committed the prisoners to the Tombs for trial.

ROBBERY IN WATER-STREET.

ALEXANDER COLLINS, of Brooklyn, on Friday night visited a groggery in Water-street, on leaving which he was assaulted by three men, who stole $14 from his pockets. Officer BYRNES, of the Fourth Precinct, arrested one of the thieves, who gave his name as JOHN HASTINGS; the others escaped. Justice DOWLING committed HASTINGS for trial.

ARREST OF A PICKPOCKET.

On Friday night Mr. ROBERT PARKER, while assisting his family into an omnibus in front of Niblo's Theatre, was jostled against by a stranger, who stole his pocket-book. Mr. PARKER immediately missed his money, and pursued the thief, who was arrested by Sergt. ROBINSON, of the Twenty-sixth Precinct. The prisoner, who gave his name as THOMAS STACK, was committed by Justice DOWLING for trial.

BRUTAL ASSAULT ON AN OFFICER.

On Friday night Officer ROBERT BARBER, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, was assaulted in the lower end of West-street by several ruffians, who beat him in a brutal manner. It is charged that one of the assailants, named named STEPHEN DALY, seized the officer's nose between his teeth, and nearly bit it off. DALY was arrested and locked up for the night. On Saturday Justice DOWLING committed him to the Tombs for trial.

THEFT OF A FUR CAPE.

On Saturday MARY ANN ROONEY was arrested at No. 220 Sullivan-street, by Sergt. QUINN, of the Sixth Precinct, on a charge of stealing a fur cape, valued at $350, and a valuable muff, from Mrs. EMMA BENNETT, of No. 10 Carmine-street, on the 14th of March last. No trace of the cape was found until Saturday, when Mrs. BENNETT saw a woman wearing a cape strongly resembling the one stolen. She followed the woman to her home, and subsequently secured her arrest. The accused says she is innocent, and bought the cape at GUNTHER'S in Maiden-lane. Justice DOWLING committed the accused, who is said to be well-known to the police.

THE LATE ATTEMPT TO DEFRAUD THE GOVERNMENT.

BENTHAN FABIAN, recently arrested in Richmond on a charge of attempting to defraud the United States Government, arrived in this city on Saturday. The prisoner stands indicted with WILLIAM CHASE BARNEY, of attempting to defraud the government out of $40,000, by removing goods from the Custom-house on fictitious bonds. He was brought to this city by an army officer. Justice DOWLING committed him for examination.

In regard to this arrest, the Richmond Enquirer says: "Not many days ago, frauds were detected in the Custom-house in New-York City, and circumstances fixed the guilt upon WILLIAM CHASE BARNEY and one BENTHAN FABIAN, as his aid. The former is a clerk in the Custom-house in New-York, and the latter was, up to a very recent date, doing business in this city under the firm of FABIAN & MADIGAN. This firm was dissolved Oct. 30, 1865. BARNEY was arrested several days ago in New-York, and committed to the Tombs for further trial. Immediately upon the detection of the frauds, communication of the facts and of the names of the parties was made to Col. A. ORDWAY, Provost-Marshal-General of this district, who succeeded in arresting FABIAN in the house of a Mr. PERRY, at Ashland, in the County of Hanover. He was committed to jail in this city, and was expected to be forwarded to New-York yesterday.

The full extent of these frauds is not, as yet, known, nor are all the parties, as yet, arrested, who are supposed to be implicated. The frauds were discovered in three bonds in the New-York Custom-house, for $40,000, which proved to be fictitious. These bonds purported to have been given by one RICHARD CLANCY, principal, and others, as securities. BARNEY, the clerk, is charged with having received these as bona fide bonds, for the purpose of withdrawing three hundred barrels of alcohol from the Custom-house. FABIAN is charged with being his aider and abettar. The above-named RICHARD CLANCY, the apparent principal of the bonds, was also arrested in this city, a few days ago, as one of the implicated parties. This man turns out to be a cunning and mean character. He had changed his name so often that we find him registered on the books of Col. DUNN, chief clerk of the department here, as REGINALD CHAUNCEY, alias Richard Clancy, alias Francis, alias James Williams. Under this last name he was found stopping at the Exchange Hotel, and afterward at the Franklin House, in this city. The department is satisfied that there are others in this city who are interested in these frauds, and the eyes of its officers are wide open and in hopeful pursuit of some of them. This scheme of fraud seems to be quite grand and extensive, involving many parties here and in New-York, and it is earnestly hoped that the whole may be brought to light, and all the guilty receive their just dues."

Jefferson Market—Before Justice Ledwith.

POVERTY AN INSUFFICIENT EXCUSE.

HENRY BARTON, a young Philadelphian, was arraigned, charged with having entered the jewelry-store of LEOPOLD SILVERTHAN, and snatched from the counter two silver watches which he was examining at the time. BARTON then fled, but was pursued and arrested. The stolen property was found in his possession. He pleaded that extreme poverty had induced him to commit the theft, but he was nevertheless committed for trial in default of $1,000 bail.

SUNDAY GAMBLING.

A detachment of officers from the Fifteenth Precinct made a descent, yesterday morning, upon the alleged gaming establishment at No. 763 Broadway, and there arrested James W. Buckley, residing on the premises, J. Taylor, M. McGuire, R. Wilson, H. Newton, G. Stacy, H. Masterson and James Smith, mostly patrons at fashionable hotels. These gentlemen were all engaged in playing faro when taken into custody, and were fined $1 each by the magistrate and discharged on payment of the fine. BUCKLEY, however, was held to bail in the sum of $500, to answer such charge as might be preferred against him.

The County Canvassers.

The Board of Supervisors, sitting as a Board of County Canvassers, will hold their first session at noon on Tuesday next. From the circular issued by Secretary of State DEPEW, it appears that the canvass of the votes given for county officers must not be completed, until after the certified returns of soldiers' votes are received and canvassed by the Board of State Canvassers, and returns thereof made to County Clerks; that then the Board of County Canvassers are again to be convened, and the canvass of votes given for county officers, including members of Assembly, completed. Until the returns are made by the Board of State Canvassers to the County Clerks and the Board of County Canvassers complete the canvass by adding the soldiers' vote on county officers, they are not to certify or publish the result of the canvass on county officers.

The Board of State Canvassers meet on or before the 15th day of December, and the returns made of soldiers' votes on county officers will be transmitted to the County Canvassers at the earliest moment after the canvass is completed.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—At about 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, WM. BENNETT, a deaf and dumb man, was knocked down by two upward-bound freight-cars of the Hudson River Railroad Company, while turning the curve at the corner of Hudson and Desbrosses streets, and instantly killed. The head of the unfortunate man was nearly severed from his body, as were also his left arm and right foot. WM. SPEEDLING, the driver, said he shouted to "clear the track," and put on the brakes, but the cars could not be stopped in time to save the life of the victim. SPEEDLING was held to await the result of the inquest which Coroner WILDEY has been notified to hold.

CONVENTION OF FRENCH CANADIANS.—The French Canadians settled in the United States will hold a convention at the St. Charles Hotel, No. 648 Broadway, on Wednesday evening next, to take into consideration the situation and interests of the Canadians settled in New-York.

ATTEMPTED BURNING OF A TENEMENT HOUSE.—At about 10 o'clock on Saturday night an incendiary fire was discovered under the stairs on the first floor of the tenement house at No. 10 Pearl-street. The flames were speedily extinguished. No clue has been obtained to the identity of the guilty parties.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

FIRES AND SERIOUS ACCIDENTS.—About 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a fire occurred in the frame dwelling-house No. 268 Bridge-st., caused by the overheating of a stove-pipe which passed through the roof. The building was damaged by fire and water to the extent of $1,000. The second floor is occupied by Mr. FRANK M. PAGE. Damage to furniture $150, insured. The first floor was occupied by Mr. SMITH WING. Loss on contents $150, supposed to be insured....Sunday morning about 3 o'clock a fire broke out in a shed in the rear of a large brick building, corner of Adams and John streets, one part of which is occupied as a Tube manufactory, and the other as a Button manufactory. The flames communicated to the main building and destroyed the upper portion of the Button factory and ruined the contents. The premises are owned by Messrs. BENTON & Co. Damage about $3,000. The proprietor being out of town the amount of insurance could not be ascertained. About 10 o'clock on Sunday morning there was an alarm of fire in the Third District, caused by smoke issuing from St. Paul's (Roman Catholic) Church, corner of Court and Congress streets. It appears that too much wood had been placed in the heater. Some of the congregation, becoming frightened, raised an alarm of fire and ran out. The excitement which ensued was almost instantly allayed by the announcement of the cause of the smoke....About noon there was an alarm of fire in the Second District, caused by throwing burning cinders among some refuse oil in the yard of the glass-works foot of State-street. No damage. In answering the alarm, Hose Company No. 5, with seven persons on the reel and three or four at the tongue, proceeded down the railroad track in Bridge-street at a fearful rate. Perceiving a railroad car coming from the opposite direction on the same track, the guides tried to switch off, and in so doing broke the tongue. One of them named PATRICK FLYNN, was thrown under the wheel, which ran over him and upset the carriage, throwing all on top with great force upon the pavement. One of FLYNN's legs was crushed. EDWARD LEDDY and WILLIAM MCFARLAND were dreadfully injured about the head and spine. ROBERT CRUMMY was pitched head foremost against a tree and was badly bruised. Three others were slightly hurt. Drs. REGAN and FARLEY attended to several of the sufferers. MCFARLAND and LEDDY were subsequently taken to the City Hospital. The others were conducted to their residences.

BURGLARIES.—The house of Mr. ASA HAYWOOD, No. 152 Clinton-street, was feloniously entered about 4 o'clock yesterday morning by forcing open the rear basement window. Officer ROGERS, of the Forty-third Precinct Police, saw them in the laundry assorting some clothing for transportation. He gave an alarm rap, upon which notice the burglars left the premises and escaped, taking with them two old coats of very little value. The house of DAVID HOYT, in Twenty-third-street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, was visited by a sneak-thief on Saturday and robbed of articles of clothing valved at $50. The till in the store of Mr. BOLLMALL, No. 40 Main-street, was relieved of $40 on Saturday evening. The house of Mr. L. C. WARREN, Van Buren-street, near Nostrand-avenue, was feloniously entered on Saturday evening and robbed of men's clothing. The residence of Mr. WILLIAM G. LANGLEY, in New-Utrecht, was feloniously entered about 4 o'clock on Saturday morning and robbed of clothing valued at $500.

A POLICEMAN STABBED.—THOMAS COLLINS and his wife CATHARINE were brought to the Forty-third Precinct Station-house on Friday night on the charge of assaulting and dangerously stabbing with a knife Officer ANDREWS, who was called into their house, No. 29 Carroll-street, by a daughter of accused, who stated that her father was killing her mother. The officer found COLLINS beating his wife in a most brutal manner, and at once seized him. The woman, forgetting the treatment she had just received, jumped at the officer like a tigress, and holding one of his arms, the husband released himself, and seizing a knife inflicted a dangerous stab in his (the officer's) neck. Officers HOLLIDAY and OSWALD, being attracted by the noise, went to ANDREWS' assistance and took the two into custody. Mr. ANDREWS was attended to by Dr. COCHRAN, who finding his injuries of a serious character, directed his transfer to the City Hospital.

FRAUD.—JOHN RIGGER, otherwise known as JOHN SMITH, a sailor boarding-house runner, was arrested by Officer WINN, of the Forty-third Precinct Police on Saturday, on the charge of obtaining money by fraud, from Capt. LEGRANGE, of the French ship St. Michael, lying at the foot of Warren-street. SMITH, it appears, agreed to put two seamen on board. He did so, and received $30 advance money. The Captain and mate having occasion to go on shore, SMITH, soon after, also left the vessel with the two men he had shipped. The seamen made their escape. The accused was brought to the station-house, and $29 of the money he received from the Captain was taken from him and fully identified. He was thereupon locked up to await examination.

ROBBING HIS EMPLOYER.—DAVID RICHARDSON, employed as a journeyman by JOHN DOYLE, tailor, No. 238 Henry-street, was arrested yesterday on the charge of robbing his employer of $34, (which he took out of his pantaloons pocket,) and stealing a customer's coat, valued at $30, with which he left. RICHARDSON got up at an early hour in the morning, on pretence of going to church, and the family being still in bed, he had a good opportunity of taking what he could easily lay hands on. He was locked up for examination before Justice WALSH.

ALLEGED BURGLAR ARRESTED.—JOHN HAYS was arrested on Saturday, on complaint of PATRICK MONAGHAN, keeper of a liquor saloon in East Baltic-street, who charges that on the night of the 12th of October accused, with others, broke into his premises and stole therefrom a rifle, $7 in cash, and nine gallons of Jamaica rum—in all valued at $62. Accused was committed for a hearing.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD.—The dead body of Mrs. HANNAH THOMPSON was discovered in the hall-way of No. 45 Hamilton-avenue, yesterday morning, by her husband. She lived at No. 43, but had wandered off the evening previous while laboring under the influence of liquor. It is supposed that she was taken with a fit, under the effects of which she died.

NEW-JERSEY.

INQUEST—THE CITY AUTHORITIES CENSURED.—Coroner AVERY, of Hoboken, concluded an inquest yesterday on the body of OWEN GARLAND who was found drowned on Friday morning in the creek over which a new bridge is being constructed at the head of Prospect-street, in the limits of Jersey City. It appears that deceased was in the employ of the Erie Railroad Company, and on his way home to Hoboken on Thursday evening, fell into the creek in consequence of the bridge—which is but partially completed—being left in an unsafe condition. The bridge is being constructed by day's work by the authorities of Jersey City. The jury in their verdict censured the authorities for neglecting to cause proper precaution to be taken to guard against accidents during the nights. Deceased was 32 years of age, and leaves a wife in poor health and destitute circumstances, and one child.

SUNDAY BALL PLAYING.—Yesterday afternoon a party of well-dressed young men, from 16 to 18 years of age, came over from New-York and engaged in a game of base ball on the meadows north of the Erie Railway track. Detective Officers E. L. MCWILLIAMS and NUGENT made a descent upon the crowd, and succeeded in arresting three of them and capturing two coats belonging to parties that escaped. The prisoners gave their names as JAMES SLATTERY, JOHN BARRETT and CHARLES LIMBURGER. At the corner of South-Eighth and Prospect streets, officers NUGENT and FARLEY arrested JOHN CARRIGAN and PATRICK MULLIGAN, who were engaged playing ball. The prisoners were committed for examination this morning.

THOS. F. MORRIS, Esq., Transfer Officer.

11,871 acres of petroleum and mineral lands, (in Johnson, Magoffin, McLean, Davies, Ohio, and Barren Counties, Ky., and Pope County, Ill.,) selected with the greatest care by gentlemen of experience in the production of oil. Lands fully reported upon by Prof. Hagar, of Vermont, (State Geologist,) and Dr. George W. Shumard, formerly United States Geologist to the United States exploring expedition to the sources of the Red River, and State Geologist of Texas.

The lands in Magoffin County are near the great Burning Spring of Kentucky, several oil springs exist on the premises; in Barren County are near developed property producing respectively in two wells 50 and 75 barrels daily; in Pope County, Ill., is a portion of a region formerly reserved by the United States Government on account of valuable leads of lead which cross the Ohio River at that point.

TEN WELLS are now under contract, part going down upon this property, and energetic measures are in progress for the rapid development of the valuable resources of this company. Report (official) from Wells Nos. 1 and 2, Oct. 8, says: "Oil is visible in Well No. 1; it could be seen yesterday plain in the borings;" and Oct. 10 says: "No. 2 is 51 feet, and has some oil. Some eight or ten gentlemen were here to-day, and said they never saw better prospects for oil. The smell of petroleum is as strong on the borings as at the flowing wells."

The recent large strikes in Kentucky must convince the most skeptical that this State bids fair to rival Pennsylvania in the production of oil. Within the last sixty days two wells, respectively of 1,500 and 2,000 barrels development, have been struck upon lands lying upon the Cumberland. A dispatch from Louisville, Nov. 2, to Mr. J. L. Smyser, says: "If you have not sold your interest in Sacramento Company, withdraw it. Another 2,000 barrel strike near the big well."

Prospectus showing in detail descriptions of the property of this company, embracing full reports from Prof. Hagar and Dr. Shumard, copy of the act of incorporation and by-laws of the company, and further information and specimens of coal and lead taken from lands of this company can be seen at the office of Mr. THOMAS F. MORRIS, Transfer Officer, No. 7 Wall-st., N. Y.
